Do you know about Age-Friendly Communities?

Successful, healthy and active aging requires a combination of social and environmental factors that work together to support the best possible experience for seniors, and for everyone.

Age-Friendly Communities benefit people of all ages. In an age-friendly community, policies, programs, services, and environments support and enable citizens to age actively.

A “Call to Action” is underway for communities to start an Age-Friendly Community engagement process where municipal, business, and community organizations and leaders connect with seniors to start thinking about ways to optimize opportunities for their health, participation and security.

Here are the key features of an Age-Friendly Community:

1. Outdoor spaces and public buildings that are pleasant, clean, secure and physically accessible
2. Public transportation that is accessible and affordable
3. Housing that is affordable, appropriately located, well-built, well-designed and secure
4. Opportunities for seniors to participate in leisure, social, cultural and spiritual activities with people of all ages and cultures
5. Older people are treated with respect and are included in civic life
6. Opportunities for employment and volunteerism that cater to older persons' interests and abilities
7. Age-Friendly communication and information is available
8. Community support and health tailored to older persons' needs

If you are interested in making your community age friendly visit the Ontario Seniors' Secretariat website and the Murray Alzheimer Research and Education Program (MAREP) website for resources on getting started and connecting with communities that are becoming age friendly.

Archives of Ontario

The Archives of Ontario is the primary source of Ontario's documentary memory. The Archives is responsible for managing, storing, conserving, arranging, describing and providing access to the province's irreplaceable documentary history dating back to the 1700s and is held in trust for the public. The Archives currently holds records created by offices of government and the private sector, as well as a growing volume of records in other media (electronic records, film, photographs, video, audio-tapes, maps and drawings).

The records at the Archives of Ontario are used for many kinds of research. People search for information about their ancestors, look at the impact of provincial government policies, find out when a particular company started operation, when a building was built, or how the earliest settlers lived. People can see photographs or maps of their hometown or look at early moving images of a particular region of the province.

One way to access the records at the Archives is through the Archives of Ontario Microfilm Interloan Service. The Microfilm Interloan Catalogue can be found on the Archives' website. Through this site, visitors can also access online exhibits and databases relating to archival records and photographs, and can identify library holdings.

The Archives of Ontario serves researchers daily, in person, in their Reading Room at their new York University location, and by mail, phone, fax and e-mail.

Individuals are now required to report lost, stolen, found or destroyed certificates. This information will be shared with other programs issuing vital documents. Anyone who finds a birth certificate is required to forward it to the Office of the Registrar General, or deliver it to the police.

Forms to apply for a new birth, death or marriage certificate are available from the ServiceOntario Website (www.serviceontario.ca) or by calling or writing to the:

Ombudsman Ontario

The role of the Ombudsman of Ontario is to investigate complaints about provincial government organizations. Based on the investigation, the Ombudsman may make recommendations to fix a problem. If these are not acted upon, the case may be reported to the Legislature.

The Ombudsman has jurisdiction over all provincial government organizations as an office of last resort. If you have tried without success to fix your problem with a provincial government organization, contact the Ombudsman. Before you do this, you should speak with the organization involved and use any complaint procedure it has, including an appeal to the head of the organization. You can also contact your Member of Provincial Parliament (MPP) representative at Queen's Park. Ombudsman Ontario's services are free and are available in French and English.

An interpreter for services in other languages can be arranged. All complaints are handled in the strictest confidence.

Aboriginal Seniors

“Aboriginal peoples” is a collective name for the original peoples of North America and their descendants. The Canadian constitution recognizes three groups of Aboriginal people: Indians (commonly referred to as First Nations), Métis and Inuit. These are three distinct peoples with unique histories, languages, cultural practices and spiritual beliefs.

This chapter is geared towards providing resources for Aboriginal people in Ontario. Included are programs and services geared towards senior Aboriginal people, access to help and other informational resources. See also other chapters in this guide for additional resources such as Libraries in Active Living.

Ontario Arts Council

The Ontario Arts Council (OAC) offers grants and services to professional Ontario-based artists and arts organizations, in support of arts education, community arts, crafts, dance, literature, media arts, multidisciplinary arts, music, theatre and visual arts.

The OAC recognizes the diversity and distinct histories of Aboriginal peoples in Ontario, and has programs designed to support a wide range of Aboriginal artists and art forms in the province. The OAC provides opportunities of arts education projects where Aboriginal artists can engage learners in their language, culture and artistic practices.

The OAC offers the Aboriginal Arts Education Projects which falls into three categories:

- Learning the Arts – funds projects where artists engage students of any age, in learning traditional and contemporary artistic skills
- Aboriginal Languages and Arts Education – funds art education projects where the primary purpose is passing on Aboriginal languages
- Aboriginal Culture and Arts Education – funds art education projects that pass on knowledge and skills of traditional Aboriginal cultures

The 'Aboriginal Artists in Schools' is part of the OAC's Artists in Education Program which supports Aboriginal artists and Elders to work in Ontario schools individually or with a partner to provide arts learning experiences.

Aboriginal artists working in all disciplines are encouraged to apply to any of the OAC programs.

Canada Council for the Arts believes that artistic expression is at the heart of Aboriginal culture. The development of programs that meet the particular needs of Aboriginal artists is a priority of the Canada Council, with dedicated programs in all arts disciplines such as media arts, dance, visual arts, music, theatre and writing and publishing.

The Aboriginal Arts Office collaborates with all arts disciplines sections within the Canada Council to support Aboriginal artistic practices. The Canada Council provides grants and services to qualifying professional Canadian artists and arts organizations through a competitive peer assessment process.

The Elder/Youth Legacy program was created to offer program funding to Aboriginal organizations that wish to work with Aboriginal Elders and youth on a project basis, encompassing all forms of contemporary or traditional arts practices. Through this program, Aboriginal arts organization can help Elders pass on their legacy of artistic practice to the next generation.

The Aboriginal Peoples Collaborative Exchange program assists individual Aboriginal artists or art groups and organizations to travel to other Aboriginal communities to share traditional or contemporary artistic practices that will contribute to their own artistic practice and foster unique artistic relationships and networks.

Aboriginal Healing & Wellness Strategy

The Aboriginal Healing & Wellness Strategy is a policy and service initiative that brings together Aboriginal Organizations and the Government of Ontario in a unique partnership to promote health and healing among Aboriginal people, in an effort to address poor health status and family violence in Aboriginal communities.

Aboriginal Health is holistic and includes the physical, mental, emotional, spiritual and cultural aspects of life. Through this understanding, a vision of healing and wellness which balances the body, mind, emotion and spirit, is promoted throughout the healing continuum. The goal of the Strategy is to foster improvements in the health and well-being of Aboriginal individuals, families, communities and nations through:

- Provision of equitable access to primary health and healing services and programs, including prevention, treatment and support, that are culturally appropriate and competent
- Building on the strengths and enhancing the capacities of Aboriginal communities
- Promotion of equitable, violence-free relationships and healthy environments

Some of the services available are:

Aboriginal Health Access Centres which offer culturally-appropriate primary care to Aboriginal families throughout the province. Programs may include pre- and post-natal care, nutrition, health education, disease prevention, counselling and traditional healing.

Healing Lodges which offer traditional healing approaches to address the underlying impacts of physical, mental and emotional abuse, sexual assault, and family dysfunction.

Women/Family Shelters are located in a number of locations to provide safe, short-term residences for women and their children who are seeking safety from partners or families. Programming may include services such as follow-up/aftercare and support, and education to prevent violence. These programs work towards health promotion and prevention, as well as screening and treatment services that are community based and culturally appropriate.

- National Aboriginal Diabetes Association (NADA) works with individuals, families and communities to access resources for diabetes prevention, education and research. For a listing of diabetes and health-related links, please contact:

- Northern Diabetes Health Network (NDHN), through its network of Northern Ontario Diabetes Programs, provides on-site as well as outreach diabetes services and education to adults, many of whom are Aboriginal Elders, in 176 communities across Northern Ontario. These services are provided by health care professionals with an expertise in diabetes. They also provide staff training and other support services to health care workers, schools and other organizations across Northern Ontario.

- The NDHN also has a Northern Ontario Initiative which funds community-led diabetes activities as well as training opportunities in Aboriginal communities. Elders are encouraged to talk to their community or off-reserve Aboriginal organization health leaders to see which NDHN-funded prevention or management activities are available or are being planned. If desired activities are not available, Elders are encouraged to work with their health leaders to submit a project idea for funding consideration. ## 2.8 Fishing and Hunting in Ontario

Fishing

Most Canadians need a licence to fish in Ontario. Fishing licences are sold by more than 2,000 licence issuers across Ontario, with all sales revenue used to manage the resource.

An Ontario Outdoors Card is a plastic, wallet-sized identification card to which your Ontario fishing licence tag is affixed. You need an Ontario-issued Outdoors Card if:

- you are a resident of Canada
- you are at least 18 years old but have not reached your 65th birthday
- and you want to fish in Ontario

If you are 65 years of age or older, or a Canadian resident with a disability (as defined by the Fish and Wildlife Conservation Act), you are not required to obtain an Outdoors Card or a fishing licence to fish in Ontario.

However, people who are exempt from obtaining an Outdoors Card and fishing licence have the same rights and responsibilities as those who have purchased a fishing licence, and must abide by all regulations, including catch and possession limits.

Hunting

If you wish to hunt in Ontario, you must have a licence valid for the species or group of species you are hunting and you must carry the licence and any validation tags with you while hunting. You must show the licence to a Conservation Officer if asked to do so. There are some special regulation provisions for seniors or disabled persons associated with hunting. For more information, please refer to the Hunting Regulations provided by the Ministry of Natural Resources.

A complete and valid licence to hunt consists of an Outdoors Card plus the required hunting licence tags (affixed to the back of your Outdoors Card) plus any applicable paper hunting licences and game seals and/or validation tags. One-year hunting licence tags are available from licence issuers located throughout Ontario.

Absences from Ontario – Maintaining Your OHIP Coverage

OHIP may cover all or a part of your health care costs while you are temporarily out of Ontario for up to 212 days in any 12-month period. You must be physically present in Ontario for 153 days in any 12-month period and make your permanent and principal home in Ontario.

You may be eligible to keep your OHIP coverage if you are out of the province for more than 212 days. This may apply if you are out of Ontario for study, work, missionary work, vacation or other reason. You must be able to provide the Ministry of Health and Long-Term Care with documents that show that you meet these requirements.

Insured Services - Travelling Outside Ontario and Outside Canada

It is important to get private health insurance before you travel, as OHIP does not cover all health services received in other provinces and territories, and health care services obtained outside Canada can cost much more than the ministry pays.

Travelling Outside Ontario

When you are travelling in other provinces or territories in Canada, OHIP will insure most medically necessary health services (physician and hospital services). OHIP will not insure elective medical services (unless pre-arranged and approved by the Ministry of Health and Long-Term Care), prescription drugs from pharmacies, ambulance services, long-term care services, or vaccinations requested to travel outside Canada. If you pay for health services while travelling within Canada but outside of Ontario, request an itemized bill and you can submit the original receipts to your local OHIP office to apply for a refund.

Travelling Outside Canada

When you are travelling outside Canada, OHIP will pay a set rate for emergency hospital and physician services for an acute, unexpected condition, illness, disease or injury that arises outside Canada and requires immediate treatment. OHIP will not insure elective medical services (unless pre-arranged and approved by the Ministry of Health and Long-Term Care), prescription drugs from pharmacies, ambulance services, long-term care services, or vaccinations requested to travel outside Canada. If you pay for health services outside Canada, request an itemized bill and you can submit the original receipts to your local OHIP office to apply for a partial refund.

Health Services Travel Claims

The Ministry of Health and Long-Term Care has established a 12-month time limit for people who are submitting claims to OHIP for health services received outside Ontario or Canada.

For complete information about travelling outside Ontario and Canada, call your local OHIP office, or visit www.health.gov.on.ca/english/public/pub/ohip/travel.html. ## Ontario Drug Benefit Program and Travel Outside of Ontario

If you have a valid Ontario Health Card, you are automatically entitled to receive benefits under the Ontario Drug Benefit Program (ODB), from the first day of the month after you turn 65.

The program does not cover medications purchased outside Ontario.

Under the program, you may receive up to a maximum 100 days' supply of medications. However, if you are travelling outside the province for between 100 and 200 days, you may access a second 100 days' supply of medication before you leave Ontario. To obtain an early refill for a second supply of up to 100 days of medication, you must provide your pharmacist with:

- a letter (which you have written yourself) confirming that you are leaving the province for between 100 and 200 days, or
- a copy of your travel insurance, confirming that you are leaving the province for between 100 and 200 days

Your normal co-payment will also apply to the second 100-days' supply.

Caregiving

Caregivers are “individuals who provide ongoing care to family members and friends in need due to physical, cognitive, or mental health conditions.” Caregiving is not new, but due to medical advances, families are now providing more complex care for a longer period of time than ever before. Stresses on the health care system mean that more and more family members are taking on more caregiving responsibilities, and they need support and preparation for their new role.

3.1 What Caregivers Need

How to Ask for the Help You Need

Asking for help is often hard because you don't always know what your needs are, you don't want to be a 'bother', or you think that no one could 'do this' as well as yourself or that no one else should be 'doing this' but yourself.

Create an unemotional list of all things that you need and try to determine the best resource for them. Group the tasks into distinct categories such as personal care, professional care, household chores, transportation, etc.

Some common needs of caregivers include:

- Dependable help with caregiving tasks. Make a list of all the regular tasks that need to be done (i.e. mowing the lawn, shovelling the snow, shopping, providing transportation, etc.) and find out what services are available in your community
- A list of friends whom you know will listen non-judgementally and who will not give unsolicited advice
- Respite – a time to renew your spirit, regain your strength and energy and release some of your stress. Investigate the resources available in your community
- A time to grieve and feel the sadness of caring for a loved one with increasing losses
- A time to laugh – a sense of humour is essential to maintaining a perspective in coping with the constant demands of a chronic or acute illness
- A safe place to vent. Support groups can be very helpful. Listening to and talking with other people with similar experiences will better understand your situation and can offer good tips, suggestions and helpful information. Sometimes just knowing that 'you're not alone' can be helpful and comforting

- Appropriate resources from the your local community to assist with legal, financial, social and long-term health planning

A Caregiver's Ten Step Action Plan

1. Start talking about what your family members want as they age. For example, if they want to stay in their own home, should they be looking at home renovations to make it easier to go up/down stairs or use the bathroom if a walker or wheelchair is required?
2. Try to avoid making promises you may be unable to keep. If a spouse or parent asks you to promise never to put him or her in a nursing home, you may want to reply - I promise I will do the best I can and I promise I will always be here for you. You must always keep in mind that the safety and health-management of your loved one is paramount.
3. Understand the critical role of legal and financial planning. Start to gather information about the person's financial security; learn where original documents are stored. Ensure individuals have prepared necessary documents such as wills, advance directives and powers of attorney.
4. Ask questions about the health care system. Learn about what alternative accommodations exist; how home care operates; what social services are available; etc. Imagine the setting of a health care facility that best fits your loved one's personality and interests.
5. Face the realities - will you have to make decisions about driving; co-habitation; placement?
6. Be aware of losses your loved one may have to deal with so you can be prepared to better cope with them:
  - Incontinence
  - Memory loss
  - Wandering concerns
  - Inability to recognize you or other loved ones
7. Talk within the family about how you plan to divide responsibility for your loved one's care and well-being.
8. Talk to your peers about how they are facing the challenges of caregiving, the problems they have encountered and solutions they have found.
9. Be aware of what you may lose:
  - Privacy
  - Social life
  - Income
  - Work opportunities

10. Appreciate what you can gain from caregiving:

- A new relationship
- New skills
- Increased compassion, growth
- New friendships
- The building of memories

3.2 How You Know a Loved One Needs Help

Specialists in gerontology evaluate seniors' abilities using two lists. The first is "Activities of Daily Living" or ADLs. If your spouse, parent or friend has problems with any of the following, the need for outside help or other intervention is obvious and critical:

- Continence
- Eating
- Getting in and out of bed
- Toileting
- Bathing
- Dressing
- Safety

The second list is "Instrumental or Intermediate Activities of Daily Living or IADLs". It is more difficult to know if an individual has problems with any of these unless you live with them. This is where your observation on visits can be critical.

- Managing finances
- Using the telephone
- Shopping
- Preparing meals
- Housekeeping
- Doing laundry
- Using transportation
- Managing medications

Please remember: Even though help may be needed in one or more of the above, a senior can still remain independent with adequate in-home supports.

Things to look for when you visit to assess if outside help is needed:

- Your loved one is consistently dressed improperly
- There is a lack of attention to personal hygiene

- Overdue bills, unopened mail
- Laundry is piling up
- Cigarette burns on the furniture
- Unexplained weight loss
- Bruises or other signs of trauma (from falls or abuse)
- Blackened pots (stove problems) or the refrigerator is too empty/too full (improper eating habits)
- Unusual behaviour i.e. not telling you things, becoming anti-social or reclusive

The list above does not go into cognitive symptoms, which may indicate a more serious problem. If you see things like your loved one getting lost while out driving or walking, severe personality changes, lost sense of time or consistent confusion, seek medical attention immediately. Another way to determine how to proceed is to call a family meeting. This way everyone – parents and adult children – will understand the problems; all will have a chance to participate in the solutions. If a sibling is out of town, try to set up a teleconference.

Contact your local Community Care Access Centre (www.310CCAC.ca) and ask for an assessment to help determine a course of action.

3.3 Long Distance Caregiving

Long-distance caregivers may not be on site providing direct care, but they can be busy in their role as care managers — locating and coordinating services; negotiating with the care recipient, health professionals and family members; delegating tasks; monitoring the situation and making decisions.

Steps to Take for More Effective Long Distance Care

---

- Arrange for a medical assessment, including a cognitive assessment by a family physician or specialist if necessary
- Determine what care services are needed
- Find out about available community resources
- Seek help from local health departments and community agencies or private care managers
- Find out who is available to provide help — family members, friends and acquaintances

- Identify areas where you may need professional assistance
- Draw up a list of care options
- Develop a care plan
- Discuss the care plan with the care recipient, family members, and the health care team, as necessary
- If publicly funded services are not available, assistance from private care managers may also be available for a fee. Be sure to research associated costs
- Investigate housing and relocation options
- Create a care log or binder to keep track of important information

A social worker or care manager located where the senior lives can work with you to make the assessment, develop the care plan and facilitate access to programs and services. The care manager can also mediate in family discussions and report to you on a regular basis. To arrange for a social worker or care manager, contact a Community Care Access Centre (www.310CCAC.ca) located in the senior's area.

Information Management

A care planner or care binder, which includes information on all facets of care, can help caregivers stay organized, keeping much-needed personal and medical information available for quick access. It can also help centralize communication among all the formal and informal caregivers by providing a place for the care team to leave important messages for each other. The care planner or care binder can go with the caregiver on physician visits so medication information may be updated on the spot or on visits to long-term care homes to record findings while they are still fresh in the caregiver's mind.

3.4 Advocacy Groups

There are ways to advocate, to get what a caregiver needs but it takes effort and planning. Communicating effectively with health care professional is a skill caregivers need to learn. To prepare for meetings with a physician or other professionals, caregivers should make a list of the things they want to talk about and the questions they need to remember to ask.

At the end of every meeting with a professional, caregivers should ask themselves the following questions. If any of the answers are no, they need to go back to the health professional involved until they get the information they need.

- Was adequate description and instruction provided regarding care tasks?
- Were all my questions answered?
- Are the professionals involved maintaining regular contact with me?
- Am I included in evaluations and assessments?

If you have concerns about care or legal issues contact, the Advocacy Centre for the Elderly (ACE) which is a community based legal clinic for low-income senior citizens. For more information about ACE, please refer to the chapter on Legal Matters.

3.5 Tax Credits

Tax credits may be available to the “supporting person” under the Disability Tax Credit and the Medical Expense Tax Credit. To be considered a “supporting person”, you need to be maintaining the dependents’ dwelling – they must have lived there at some point during the tax year (it doesn’t have to be the full year).

These are non-refundable tax credits, which means they can reduce the amount of federal or provincial tax you owe, but are not a cash benefit.

In addition, the Caregiver Amount may be claimed if you are maintaining a dwelling for an eligible dependent relative. Unlike the Disability and Medical Expense Tax Credits, this cannot be claimed if the person you’re caring for is your spouse or common-law partner.

For more information on any of these tax credits, please see the Finance Chapter or contact:

3.6 Employment Benefits for the Caregiver

Compassionate Care Benefit Program

---

If you are eligible for Employment Insurance Benefits, you may qualify for up to six weeks of special benefits if you need to be away from work to provide care or support to a gravely ill family member who is at risk of dying with 26 weeks.

For more information, contact:

Service Canada

Family Medical Leave

Even if you qualify for the Compassionate Care Benefit, you want to be sure that your employer will keep your job for you while you are away. Under the Employment

Standards Act, the Family Medical Leave allows employees to take up to eight weeks of leave to care for certain family members. This is an unpaid leave, so although your job is protected, your employer does not pay you while you are away. A qualified medical practitioner must issue a certificate. Even if you do not qualify for the Compassionate Care Benefit, you may still be able to take an unpaid Family Medical Leave.

www.labour.gov.on.ca/english/es/faqs/fml.php

Personal Emergency Leave

---

This may be taken for illness, injury or medical emergency of an employee, or to provide care for certain family members or relatives who are dependent on you for care and assistance. It is an unpaid, job-protected leave that allows you to take up to ten days per calendar year away from work, in workplaces of over 50 employees.

3.7 Care for the Caregiver

Care for the caregiver should never be regarded as a selfish goal but rather an integral part of any sensible, enduring care plan.

Learn what coping methods suit you and use them. Exercise, go to movies, read, keep a journal – do what you enjoy, but do your best to maintain a healthy lifestyle.

Support Groups

Support groups can provide both an opportunity to learn about new skills and care solutions from other caregivers as well as the opportunity to openly express the wide range of emotions all caregivers experience – ranging from frustration, anger and guilt to loneliness and grief. Other caregivers can offer the best support; they know what you are going through and are there to share and support, not to judge and censure.

Respite Care

Respite care is the break that caregivers get by allowing someone else to temporarily take over some of their caregiving duties. Used on a regular basis, respite care helps prevent caregiver burnout by relieving some of the caregiver's workload and stress. Although respite care can benefit the care receiver, it must be regarded as essential for the caregiver.

There are three ways respite care is usually provided:

- Adult Day Programs for Seniors are available in most communities. They offer social or recreational activities and meals at a location away from your home. These are often at a community or seniors centre. They may provide transportation and some personal care services. There can be a fee to cover some of these costs; there may also be subsidies or a sliding scale charge
- In-Home Respite brings someone to your home to provide a service and to allow the family caregiver to take a break or do errands. If you are eligible for services coordinated by the Community Care Access Centre (CCAC), then those services are free
- Short-Stay Respite means that the person for whom you are caring will go to a long-term care home for a short stay. There is a fee for these short stays

Contact your local CCAC for further information and referrals to respite services.

4.2 Consumer Protection

Consumer Protection helps citizens understand Ontario's consumer protection legislation, directs you to the right information and mediates written complaints between consumers and businesses. Inspectors also visit businesses to help them comply with consumer law in sectors such as cemeteries, motor vehicle repairs, home repairs, health and fitness clubs and collection agencies.

The online "Your Consumer Protection Toolbox" outlines what you need to do before Consumer Protection can step in to investigate. If you have a dispute with a service provider, first try to resolve the problem with the business. You'll find information on how to write a complaint letter, have access to sample letters and learn about the procedure for starting an investigation. If you have a concern about the purchase of goods and/or services contact:

Door-to-Door Consumer Legislation

Ontario has increased protection for consumers when they deal with door-to-door sellers.

- There is a 10-day cooling off period for all sales worth $50 or more made at the consumer's home, whether the goods delivered or services are provided at the time of sale or afterwards, and regardless of whether payment is made in full or in part
- Consumers may cancel any direct sales contract if goods are not received or services are not provided within 30 days of the date promised
- All direct sales contracts must include a description of the item and price, the delivery date and charges, start and completion dates, and the buyer's and seller's names and addresses

Purchasing Funeral and Cemetery Services

Here's what you need to know:

- In Ontario, all funeral directors, funeral homes, transfer services, cemeteries and crematoriums must be licensed
- Services, facilities and prices may vary among providers. Comparison shop to help you find the licensee that best meets your needs, at a price that fits your budget
- Services and merchandise are available to fit most budgets. Ask for a price list – they're free with no obligation
- Read your contract carefully. Ask questions. Make sure you know what you have paid for
- Prearrange and prepay only with licensed providers
- Remember, when making arrangements, funeral directors, funeral homes, transfer services, cemeteries and crematoriums must deal only with the legal representative of the deceased

For issues relating to funeral and transfer service providers, contact the Board of Funeral Services at www.funeralboard.com or call toll-free 1-800-387-4458.

For issues relating to cemeteries and crematoriums, contact the Consumer Services Bureau at www.ontario.ca/consumerprotection or call 1-800-889-9768.

4.3 Identity Theft

Protect your personal information (name, address, bank account number, etc.) to reduce the risk of someone stealing it to commit a crime in your name.

If you suspect that you have given your personal information to a fraud or scam artist, take these steps to protect yourself:

- Call your bank or credit union immediately to report it and change your account numbers
- Call your credit card company immediately to cancel your credit card and have a new one issued with a different number
- Contact local police to report the crime

“Phishing”

---

If you have an e-mail account, chances are you have received “phishing” e-mails which are messages designed to fool recipients into thinking that they are from real companies, like your bank.

These e-mails are meant to lure people into providing information, such as passwords or account numbers. Armed with that information, criminals can steal your money or your identity.

- Never reply to e-mails requesting personal or financial information. Banks and reputable businesses do not send unsolicited e-mails requesting this information
- Keep your computer anti-spyware and anti-virus programs up-to-date

Do not believe any threats in a phishing e-mail. If you’re worried, use information that you already have (e.g., the phone number provided on the back of your credit card or on your billing invoice) to check with the company directly.

Protect Your Social Insurance Number and SIN Card

There are a number of things you can do to protect your Social Insurance Number (SIN) and your SIN card:

- Only provide your Social Insurance Number if you know that it is legally required

- Contact Service Canada if you change your name, your citizenship status changes, information on your SIN record is incorrect or incomplete, or if there is a death in your family
- Inform Service Canada if your SIN card is lost or if you suspect that your SIN is being wrongly used

Follow these tips:

- Don't carry your SIN card with you. Store your card in a secure file cabinet at home or in a safety deposit box
- Never use your SIN card as a piece of identification. Doing so puts your SIN and personal information at risk
- Don't provide your SIN over the phone unless you make the call and you know with whom you are dealing
- Never reply to e-mails that request personal information such as your SIN

The Council has set up programs to support its mandate that aim to promote fair and ethical competition in the industry, support a code of ethics, maintain and enforce consumer compensation programs, and encourage legislative and regulatory amendments aimed at industry professionalism and consumer confidence.

Ontario Registered Travel Agencies

All travel agencies located and operating in the province of Ontario are required under provincial legislation to be registered with TICO. To benefit from the legislated consumer protection provisions, it is important for consumers to ensure that they purchase their travel services with a TICO registered Ontario travel agency. Consumers can go to www.tico.ca and use the Travel Agency Search feature to confirm that the travel company they wish to purchase their travel services from is registered with TICO.

As long as the consumer has purchased their travel services from a registered Ontario travel retailer, a claim may be filed against the Compensation Fund for the non-provision of travel services.

Emergency Services and Public Safety

5.1 Emergency Services

---

Emergency Numbers

In any emergency situation whenever police, fire or ambulance assistance is required immediately, CALL 9-1-1, where available.

Individual emergency numbers such as ambulance, police, fire, distress centres, victims' helplines, poison information and others, are listed in your telephone book in the "Emergency Numbers" section.

Emergency Preparedness

Emergencies can happen at anytime and occur anywhere, sometimes without much warning. An emergency can force you to evacuate your neighbourhood or confine you to your home or workplace. It can leave you without basic services such as water, gas, electricity or a working telephone. Although Ontario has effective emergency management legislation and programs, individuals and families play a vital role in preparing for times of crisis; and they are best able to cope when they have taken the time to plan for and prepare, before an emergency happens.

Emergency Management Ontario offers information in the form of online emergency preparedness videos, resource links, fact sheets, and a downloadable guide for people with disabilities/special needs. All of this information and more, can be found at:

www.emergencymanagementontario.ca/english/prepare/emergency.html

Public Safety Canada publishes a wide variety of products aimed at helping citizens know of the risks and get prepared for emergencies, including Your Emergency Preparedness Guide. You can order print versions of this or other publications at no charge, and/or view them online at the web address below. In addition, you will be able to access a wide variety of safety tips and information on how to take care of yourself and your family on topics ranging from heat waves and the flu virus, through to severe storms, power outages and floods.

Family service agencies offer specialized counselling services such as individual, couple and family counselling, lifestyle change, stress management, unemployment counselling, and therapy for survivors of sexual abuse and family violence. In addition, many family agencies provide immigrant services, marriage preparation, retirement preparation, family life education, a variety of seniors' programs, addiction and credit counselling services, palliative care and hospice programs.

Family service agencies are deeply rooted in the fundamental concepts of helping individuals, families and communities. All agencies have 'sliding scales' wherein fees are based on a person's ability to pay – no one is turned away.

Fire Safety

According to statistics from the Office of the Fire Marshal, adults age 65 and older are at a higher risk of dying from fire than any other age group. The Office of the Fire Marshal provides fire prevention and public education materials to municipalities and local fire departments.

It is now the law for all Ontario homes to have a working smoke alarm on every floor and outside all sleeping areas. This includes all single family, semi-detached and town homes, whether owner-occupied or rented. To ensure that your smoke alarm is in good working order, it is recommended that it is checked once a month, and batteries are changed once per year.

The Fire Marshal's Public Fire Safety Council oversaw the launch of a provincial home smoke alarm safety check program called Alarmed for Life. The program involves local fire departments' conducting home fire safety checks and offering smoke alarms, batteries and carbon monoxide detectors for residents in their communities. The proceeds from this program go toward supporting the Arson Prevention Program for Children and other educational programs. For people who have physical limitations or difficulty in remembering to change the battery in a conventional smoke alarm, the program offers a 'ten-year' smoke alarm that is powered by a lithium powercell with a ten-year warranty.

Older adults, their families and caregivers should take time to complete a fire safety check of their home, apartment or room. Municipal fire departments will provide advice and assistance to seniors and deliver presentations to seniors' groups and community events.

For information regarding public education programs, fire safety information, brochures and tips, contact your local fire department or visit:

5.6 Falls Prevention

Falls are the leading cause of injury among seniors and roughly half occur at home. One-third of seniors age 65 and over have a fall every year. While many people are not aware of the steps that can be taken to avoid falls, they are actually the most preventable risk to health among senior Canadians.

Risks

Osteoporosis is a condition that causes bones to become thin and porous, decreasing bone strength and leading to increased risk of breaking a bone. Individuals with fragile bones are much more likely to break a bone if they fall.

At least 80% of fractures in people 60 years of age and older, are related to osteoporosis and between 70-90% of hip fractures are caused by osteoporosis annually.

Although no single cause for osteoporosis has been identified, being 65 or older is considered to be a major risk factor. While osteoporosis is more common in women, at least one in eight men over 50 also has the disease.

You Can Prevent Falls! is a pamphlet that focuses on how seniors can prevent falls by making the needed adjustments to their homes and lifestyles by eating well, staying fit, and using devices that will facilitate their daily lives while keeping them safe.

Seniors are more at risk for falling on stairs than younger adults and more likely to suffer severe injuries. In fact, seniors age 65+ account for 70% of the deaths resulting from stair accidents.

Twelve steps to stair safety at home is a one-page checklist that reminds seniors of the common hazards in stairways and the proper ways to set up and use their stairs.

If You Fall or Witness a Fall, Do You Know What To Do? is a pamphlet that provides detailed images of what to do if you fall and can get up; what to do if you fall and can't get up; and what to do if you witness someone fall and the steps you can take to help them.

The Report on Seniors Falls in Canada (2005) was designed to support the efforts of all those who work on research, programs and policies to reduce seniors' falls and falls-related injuries. It presents a comprehensive analysis of national data for Canadians age 65 or older on fall injuries and deaths, as well as evidence on risk factors and best practices for the prevention of injuries to seniors living in both community and institutional settings.

Employment

6.1 Employment

Retirement is a relatively new concept in Ontario, dating back to 1927 when the first old-age pension was introduced for those aged 70 years and older. It was not until 1965 that the Canadian pension became universal for all Canadians 65 years and older. And in December 2006, mandatory retirement was abolished.

While the average age of retirement is 62, the average life expectancy is 20 years longer, and many who once dreamed of sleeping in until noon after 65 are beginning to rethink retirement. According to a 2004 Statistics Canada Survey, 20% of Canadians surveyed said that they do not intend to retire at all.

7.1 Taxes

Filing Your Taxes

Filing your personal tax return each year is the best way to ensure that you are getting all of the benefits that you are eligible to receive.

Many seniors fail to file a tax return because they have no taxable income or because they may have health problems, or literacy and language barriers. The Community Volunteer Income Tax Program assists low income seniors with filing their tax returns. More information about the program is found in this chapter.

There are a number of reasons why all seniors should file an annual tax return even if there is no income to report.

First, seniors should file a return to collect the HST credit, which is a tax-free quarterly payment meant to assist individuals with low incomes to offset all or part of the HST they pay.

Second, you may be eligible for refundable tax credits or grants, which are payable to you even if you have no earnings and have paid no tax. These can include the following as noted on the Canada Revenue Agency website at:

www.cra.gc.ca/seniors

- Age Amount
- Medical Expenses: You may be able to claim a non-refundable tax credit based on the cost of medical expenses for any 12-month period
- Disability Amount: If you had a severe and prolonged impairment in physical or mental functions in 2009 and meet certain conditions, you may be able to claim this non-refundable tax credit
- Public Transit Tax Credit: If you use public transit and have bought certain transit passes, you may be able to claim this non-refundable tax credit

Next, many of the pension related programs such as Old Age Security, Guaranteed Income Supplement, Allowance and Allowance for the Survivor require annual applications, and the tax return is the simplest way to renew these pension benefits. Lastly, life events such as the development of a disability, or a change in your marital status through marriage or the death of your spouse or common-law partner, can lead to additional supports or reductions in benefits identified in your tax return.

The information provided here is general in nature. Please refer to the General Income Tax and Benefit Package or speak to a Canada Revenue Agency representative about your situation at:

Property Taxes

The money required by a municipality to provide services is largely provided through property taxes. The taxes are calculated by multiplying the assessed value of a property by a tax rate. The tax rate is expressed as a percentage of the assessed value. A municipality can set different tax rates for different classes of property (e.g., residential, multi-residential, commercial, industrial).

Municipal Property Assessment Corporation

---

The Municipal Property Assessment Corporation is responsible for assessing all property in Ontario. It operates under the authority of the Municipal Property Assessment Corporation Act. Every municipality in Ontario is a member of the corporation. Its main responsibility is to calculate an assessed value, or assessment, for each of the over four million properties in Ontario. Municipalities use these values when they calculate property taxes.

Harmonized Sales Tax

In July 2010, the Provincial Sales Tax (PST) was replaced with a value-added tax that combines the federal Goods and Services Tax (GST) to create a Harmonized Sales Tax (HST) for Ontario.

The provincial portion of the HST is eight per cent and the federal portion is five per cent, for a combined HST rate of 13 per cent.

HST is not charged on some items, including basic groceries, prescription drugs, and medical devices, municipal public transit, auto insurance, most health and education services, legal aid services and child care services.

Consumers will not have to pay the provincial portion (eight per cent) of the HST for most prepared foods and beverages sold for a total of $4 or less, books (including audio books), print newspapers, diapers, feminine hygiene products, children's clothing, footwear, car seats and car booster seats.

There is temporary relief to residents of Ontario to help adjust to the new harmonized sales tax system that came into effect on July 1, 2010. Ontario funds the program and Canada Revenue Agency administers the program through the personal income tax system.

- Eligible families - including single parents and senior couples - with an annual income below $160,000 receive three payments totalling $1,000
- Eligible individuals with an annual income below $80,000 receive three payments totalling $300

These payments are delivered to eligible Ontario tax filers aged 18 and over in June 2010, December 2010 and June 2011.

Ontario Property and Sales Tax Credits

The Ontario property tax credit provides property tax relief for low-to-middle income homeowners and tenants. Ontario funds the credit, and the Canada Revenue Agency administers the program through the personal income tax system.

The credit is based on occupancy cost – that is, property tax paid or 20 per cent of rent paid for the year. The amount you receive depends on your age and income. Both the Ontario Property and Sales Tax Credits can be received even if you pay no income tax.

Important Note for Senior Couples:

The income threshold for claiming the Ontario Property and Sales Tax Credits for senior couples has increased. Now, senior couples can claim the full amount of the credit if they receive the maximum level of income under the following programs:

- Old Age Security
- Guaranteed Income Supplement
- Ontario Guaranteed Annual Income System

For 2010 and Subsequent Years

The Ontario Property and Sales Tax Credits will be replaced with two separate and enhanced credits. The new Ontario Property Tax Credit will extend property tax relief to more Ontarians starting in 2010.

Eligible low-to middle-income Ontario seniors will receive a new, permanent Ontario Sales Tax Credit of up to $260 for each adult and child per year.

Eligible low-to-middle income senior homeowners and tenants will also receive a new Ontario Property Tax Credit of up to $1,025.

You can claim the credit if all of the following conditions apply:

- you were a resident of Ontario on December 31
- you (or someone else) paid your rent or property tax on your principal residence in Ontario for the year
- you were 18 years of age or older, or were a parent who resided with their child, or were married or had a common law partner on December 31

Eligible senior homeowners can apply to receive additional assistance with their property taxes through the Ontario Senior Homeowners' Property Tax Grant. Senior homeowners may be eligible for both the Property Tax Credit and the Grant

Spouses and Common-Law Partners

If you lived with your spouse or common-law partner on December 31, only one of you can claim the property tax credit for both of you. If one spouse or common-law partner is 65 or older, that spouse or common-law partner has to claim the credit for both of you.

If you marry, or meet the definition of common-law partnership in the taxation year, the occupancy cost for each person before, is combined with the occupancy cost after marriage or common-law partnership, and one spouse or common-law partner must file for both.

Separation During the Year

If you and your spouse or common-law partner were separated or divorced on December 31, each of you can claim a property and sales tax credit.

Although you may have shown your marital status on your tax return as married or living common-law, if you and your spouse or common-law partner occupied separate principal residences in Ontario for part or all of the year for medical, educational, or business reasons, Canada Revenue Agency will consider you to be involuntarily separated during that period for purposes of the property and sales tax credits.

As a result, each of you may apply for a property tax credit by including the following in your tax credit claim:

- a share of the property tax or rent for the part of the year when you lived together
- your own property tax or rent paid after the separation

For the period before separation, the property tax or rent paid may be divided any way you choose. However, the total amount of rent or property tax claimed, when combined, may not be more than the actual rent or property tax paid for the residence before separation.

Each spouse or common-law partner may claim a sales tax credit. However, only one person may claim the sales tax credit for a dependent child.

Death in the Year

You cannot claim the property or sales tax credits on the final return for a person who died in the tax year.

If your spouse or common-law partner died in the tax year, you can claim the property tax credit and sales tax credit on your return but you cannot claim an additional sales tax credit for your deceased spouse or common-law partner.

Receipts

You do not have to include property tax or rent receipts with the Ontario tax credits form. Keep all receipts in case the Canada Revenue Agency asks to see them.

Receipts should state the year, the total amount of rent paid, and the name and address of the landlord.

Occupancy Cost

Your occupancy cost only covers the period in the tax year that you lived in your principal residence in Ontario. A principal residence can be a house, apartment, condominium, hotel or motel room, mobile home, or rooming house.

Exceptions:

- a principal residence does not include a residence that does not pay full municipal and school taxes, or full grants instead of taxes
- nursing homes, hospitals, charitable institutions, group homes or similar institutions do not normally qualify as principal residences unless the institutions pay full municipal and school taxes or a full grant instead of taxes. See heading Residents of Facilities below

Homeowners

If you are a homeowner, occupancy cost is the property tax paid in Ontario on your principal residence in the taxation year including:

- tax charged for municipal and school purposes
- tax charged for local improvements to real property (if you paid a local improvement fee in one lump sum during the year or over a number of years, the amount paid in each year can be included in the calculation of your property tax)
- tax charged under the Provincial Land Tax Act or the Local Roads Boards Act
- licence fees charged by municipalities and fees charged by school boards for mobile homes

Property tax does not include:

- 'user charges' billed by a municipality (e.g. water)
- 'common expenses' incurred by condominium owners
- mortgage principal and interest
- property tax interest and/or penalty charges
- the portion of local improvement payments financed by government agencies (you may claim your actual payment for the local improvement)
- property tax for the portion of a residence used for a business

Renter

If you rented, occupancy cost is 20 per cent of the rent paid in Ontario in the taxation year including:

- a deposit for the last month's rent (in the year you use the deposit)
- property tax paid as part of your rent
- imputed rent (explained below)

Rent does not include: utility charges such as water, electricity, parking, janitorial and recreational facilities which are separately itemized.

Note: If these charges are not separately itemized but included in your lease agreement, you may consider the full amount as rent:

- charges for board (e.g. meals, cleaning and laundry)
- amounts paid to relatives or friends as repayment of household expenses, unless these amounts are reported as rental income on their returns

Imputed Rent Arrangements

Imputed rent is the value of services that you or your spouse or common-law partner provide to a landlord instead of paying rent. For example, if you are a farm labourer, domestic, apartment superintendent or a member of the clergy, you may have imputed rent. You may use the imputed rent to calculate occupancy cost for the property tax credit. You must also include the imputed rent as income when filing your income tax return.

Shared Residence

If you share a principal residence with one or more persons (other than your spouse or common-law partner), your occupancy cost is based on your share of the rent or property tax you paid for the year.

Unregistered Condominium

If you occupy a new unregistered condominium unit as your principal residence, special rules apply. From the date you occupy the unit until it is registered in your name, you would claim the interim cost of the condominium as rent. Once the unit is registered, calculate the property tax credit as an owner by prorating property taxes from the date of registration to December 31.

Mobile or Modular Home on Leased Land

If you own your home but lease the land on which the home is situated, you may claim a property tax credit. Assuming that property tax, a municipal licence fee and/or a school board fee was paid, you may claim the occupancy cost either as rent or as property tax. Use the method most beneficial to you.

For example:

- use 20 per cent of the total rent paid, including any tax or fee as part of that rent
- use the property tax, municipal licence fee and/or school board fee for the home and lot

Property tax is the actual tax on the home and lot. It is calculated by multiplying the assessed value by the local mill rate, and is not necessarily the amount considered 'tax' in the rental agreement.

Residents of Facilities

If you live in a nursing home, charitable institution, home for the aged or a similar facilities which pays full municipal and school taxes, or a grant instead of taxes, you may claim a property tax credit. You must deduct from your occupancy cost any accommodation subsidy from a government agency.

The rent portion of your nursing home payment must not include amounts for items (i.e. meals, housekeeping, laundering or other services) other than the occupancy. If a cost breakdown is not available, an amount of up to 75 per cent of your total nursing home payments may be claimed as rent.

If your spouse or common-law partner continues to reside in the family residence, that individual could claim his/her own property tax credit under the involuntary separation option.

Co-operative Housing

Residents of co-operative housing units who do not have ownership interest, may claim a property tax credit based on rental payments only.

If you live and have an ownership interest in a co-operative, you may claim a property tax credit based on the property tax you paid to the municipality, or the property tax set by the co-operative for the unit you occupy.

Life Lease Arrangements

Residents who have paid a lump sum for the 'right to occupy' for life or a stipulated period are not registered on title as owners of their unit, therefore they are more like tenants than owners.

Property Tax Relief for Residences Built or Modified to Accommodate Seniors or Persons with Disabilities

---

Property owners who build or modify a residence to accommodate a senior or a person with a disability may be eligible for property tax relief.

Where an existing home is renovated through alterations or additions to the premises to accommodate a senior or a person with a disability, the value of the alteration, improvement or addition is exempt from property taxation.

- an example of an alteration would be the construction of ramps
- an example of an addition would be a new room (sometimes called a “granny flat”)

Where a new home is built to accommodate a senior or a person with a disability, 10 per cent of the assessed value of the home is exempt from property taxation.

Property owners who believe their home is eligible for tax relief under this program should notify their local office of the Municipal Property Assessment Corporation (MPAC) about the renovation or construction on their premises by October of the year preceding the tax year to ensure that exempt status can be reflected on the assessment roll.

Exempt Items for People with Physical Disabilities

Some household appliances, mobility aids, communications equipment, protective and pain-relieving devices, and other items may qualify for an exemption from Retail Sales Tax if solely designed for physically disabled persons.

The Retail Sales Tax Act also provides a specific exemption from RST for hearing aids, optical appliances, orthopaedic appliances and prosthetic appliances or equipment. These items are not required to be designed solely for people who are physically disabled.

Senior Homeowners' Property Tax Grant

---

The Ontario Senior Homeowners' Property Tax Grant is an annual benefit to help offset property taxes for seniors with low and moderate incomes who own their own homes. The Canada Revenue Agency administers the grant on behalf of the Province of Ontario.

You can apply for a grant for a taxation year if you meet the following conditions on December 31 of the previous year.

- you were 64 years of age or older on December 31
- you were a resident of Ontario on December 31

- you (or your spouse or common-law partner) owned and occupied your principal residence on December 31 for which you (or your spouse or common-law partner) paid Ontario property taxes in 2009
- your spouse or common-law partner has not received a Property Tax Grant for 2010
- you meet the income requirements

You may be eligible for the Ontario Property Tax Credit in addition to the Property Tax Grant. Starting in 2010, the Ontario Property and Sales Tax Credit is replaced with a new Ontario Sales Tax Credit and a new Ontario Property Tax Credit.

Note: If you did not apply for the 2009 grant on your 2008 personal income tax return, you may contact the Canada Revenue Agency at 1-800-959-8281 to request an adjustment to your return to apply for it before April 30, 2012.

To receive the grant, you have to apply for it each year by completing and attaching Form ON479, Ontario Credits and Senior Homeowners' Property Tax Grant, to your personal income tax return. (Note: This form is included in the Ontario General Income Tax and Benefit package.) To qualify for the Ontario Senior Homeowners' Property Tax Grant, you must pay Ontario property taxes on a principal residence you own.

For additional information, review the Senior Homeowner's Property Tax Grant Information Bulletin at:

www.rev.gov.on.ca/en/bulletins/itrp/6493.html

Principal Residence

Effective January 1, 2009, the Taxation Act, 2007 was amended so that residents of trailer parks and life lease residents are also allowed to receive the grant and the Ontario Property Tax Credit.

This change allows seniors to claim the grant and the Ontario Property Tax Credit where their principal residence is a non-seasonal mobile home or a residence occupied pursuant to a prepaid life lease (or a prepaid lease having a term of at least 10 years).

Individuals who own their home but lease the land on which the home is situated can claim the grant or the Ontario property tax credit portion by:

- Determining the amounts they paid for the year to the owner of the land to compensate the owner for municipal tax assessed against the land
- Determining the amounts of municipal tax they paid for the year in respect of the non-seasonal mobile home

- Using the total of the two amounts determined above for the grant and the Ontario property tax credit

In a situation where both spouses or common-law partners are seniors and live apart and maintain separate principal residences on December 31 of the previous year for health reasons, each may apply for a property tax grant for their separate eligible residences.

Income Taxes

Canada first collected personal income tax in 1917. The organization that evolved into the Canada Revenue Agency (CRA) was founded in 1927. Starting in 1966, Canada Pension Plan (CPP) contributions were collected from employers and self-employed Canadians.

Learning About Taxes

CRA offers a free online course "Learning About Taxes". This course has been developed to help you understand the fundamentals of the Canadian tax system and to teach you how to file a simple income tax and benefit return.

Preparing Your Tax Return

If you filed a return last year, you will be sent a new one each year. You can view and print the General Income Tax and Benefit Return online, or you can download the files onto your computer's hard drive. You can also use CRA's online order form or by calling 1-800-959-2221 to have a printed copy of the General income tax and benefit package, and any other forms and publications, mailed to you.

You can get the General guide and forms book from any postal outlet or Service Canada office near you between February and early May each year.

You can fill out and send your tax return on paper or electronically. Use electronic services such as NETFILE and TELEFILE, My Account, My Payment, and direct deposit to file your return, manage your tax affairs online, make online payments, and get your refund and benefits deposited into your bank account, respectively. My Account allows you to track your refund, view or change your return, check your benefit and credit payments and your RRSP limit, and set up direct deposit. To use My Account, you have to register for an epass. Once you are registered, CRA will mail you a Security Code, within five business days. For e-services helpdesk, contact CRA.

www.cra.gc.ca/eservices

To file your return over the Internet via CRA's NETFILE service, you will need to purchase commercial tax filing software or have your return filed by a professional tax service. Canada Revenue Agency will provide you with an access code to connect to their server so that you can send your data to them. For an access code, please visit:

www.netfile.gc.ca

TELEFILE is an interactive computer program that allows eligible taxpayers to electronically file their tax return for free using a touch-tone telephone. All you need to use the service is a touch-tone telephone, your social insurance number (SIN), your personalized access code and your completed tax return. You can contact the TELEFILE service toll-free at 1-800-959-1110 or by visiting:

www.cra-arc.gc.ca/esrvc-srvce/tx/ndvdlstlfl/menu-eng.html

If you send in a paper form, include your information slips detailing your sources of income and deductions. Keep a copy, paper or electronic, of your return for future reference.

After your tax return has been processed, Canada Revenue Agency will mail you a Notice of Assessment showing any changes or corrections made to the tax return (such as identifying and correcting a math error). If you are entitled to a refund because CRA agrees with the calculations on your return that you over-paid your taxes during the year, CRA will issue a refund.

Payments or Refunds

My Payment is a new payment option that allows individuals and businesses to make payments online from an account at a participating Canadian financial institution using CRA's website:

www.cra-arc.gc.ca/esrvc-srvce/tx/mypymnt/menu-eng.html

You may be able to pay electronically using your financial institution's Internet or telephone banking services. Most financial institutions allow you to schedule future-dated payments. For more information, contact your financial institution.

You can make your payment free of charge at your financial institution in Canada. To do so, you have to use the remittance form in your personalized tax package.

You can attach a cheque or money order made out to the Receiver General to the front of your paper return. To help CRA process your payment correctly, write your social insurance number on the back of your cheque or money order.

7.2 Pensions

The last decades of the 20th century saw major improvements in the incomes of older Canadians and dramatic reductions in poverty among seniors. While these successes should be acknowledged, research indicates that the retirement income system may experience challenges in the 21st century. As the population of Ontario ages, retirement security issues are becoming more important for people with and without pension plans.

Although Defined Benefit plans are a key source of income for seniors in Ontario (50 per cent of singles and couples age 65 or over receive income from Defined Benefit pension plans), Defined Benefit plan coverage has declined from over 40 per cent to about a third of paid employees. Many Ontarians without employment pension plans have seen their retirement savings decline significantly due to negative returns in equity markets around the world in 2008, the global recession and low interest rates. Governments are reviewing the state of the current retirement income system, its future sustainability and options that could strengthen it for tomorrow's seniors. ### Pension Information

To get information about any benefit under the Old Age Security (OAS) Pension program or Canada Pension Plan (CPP), contact Service Canada at the number below. Please have ready either the number that appears on your OAS or CPP payment, your Social Insurance Number, or the number on your Old Age Security Card.

You can notify Service Canada of a change of address 24 hours a day, seven days a week by calling the automated telephone system at the number listed below.

You can arrange to have the government deposit your CPP and OAS benefits (including Guaranteed Income Supplement, Allowance and Allowance for the Survivor) directly into your bank or credit union account each month. This assures your deposit will be on time, without the risk of paper cheques being lost, stolen or damaged.

You can make all the arrangements for direct deposit over the phone. You will need to give the full number of the account where you want your payment deposited (that number can be found on the bottom of one of your cheques for that account). If you don't have a chequing account, officials at your banking institution can give you the information. To ask for direct deposit, simply call one of the numbers below.

If you have questions about whether you are eligible for any of the Old Age Security and Canada Pension Plan benefits mentioned here, call Service Canada and staff will review your file free of charge.

7.3 Old Age Security Pension

Old Age Security Pension provides a monthly payment at age 65 if you have lived in Canada for at least 10 years. If you are a low-income senior, you may be eligible for other benefits as early as age 60. You must apply to receive OAS benefits. You do not have to be retired to receive the basic OAS Pension. Like most other retirement income, your basic Old Age Security pension is taxable income.

To qualify for the basic Old Age Security pension, you must:

- be 65 years of age or over, and
- live in Canada and be a Canadian citizen or a legal resident at the time the application is approved, and
- have lived in Canada at least 10 years after reaching age 18

If you don't live in Canada, you must:

- be 65 years of age or older, and
- have been a Canadian citizen or a legal resident of Canada the day before you left Canada, and
- have lived in Canada for at least 20 years after turning 18

If you are not covered by either of these two scenarios, you may still qualify for a pension since Canada has social security agreements with many countries. If you have lived in one of these countries or contributed to its social security system, you may qualify for a pension from that country, from Canada or from both countries. For more information, see the section on International Benefits in this chapter or contact Service Canada.

If you apply at any time after your 66th birthday, you will receive a back payment worth up to a total of 12 months of pension benefits.

In addition to the basic Old Age Security Pension, seniors living in Canada who have low or modest incomes may qualify for other benefits such as the Guaranteed Income Supplement.

In addition, a spouse or common-law partner between the ages of 60 to 64 of a GIS recipient, may be entitled to the “Allowance” or to the “Allowance for the Survivor”.

The Guaranteed Income Supplement provides additional money on top of the Old Age Security Pension to low-income seniors living in Canada. If you have little or no income besides your OAS basic pension, you may be able to get a monthly Guaranteed Income Supplement. The amount of this extra payment is based on your annual income, or the combined annual income of you and your spouse or common-law partner (same-sex or opposite sex).

You must apply for this benefit and renew it each year, either automatically by filing an income tax return by April 30 each year, or by filling out a renewal form. The GIS benefit is not taxable income, although it is included in the calculation of net income, which is used in determining eligibility for a number of income-tested benefits.

Allowance and Allowance for the Survivor

The Allowance is a monthly benefit for low-income seniors (aged 60-64) whose spouse or common-law partner is eligible for, or currently receiving, the Old Age Security (OAS) pension and the Guaranteed Income Supplement (GIS). The monthly Allowance is based on your income and that of your spouse/common-law partner.

The Allowance for the Survivor is based solely on the survivor’s income. You may qualify for the Allowance for the Survivor if your spouse or common-law partner has died, and you have not remarried or entered into a new common-law relationship for more than 12 months. In the case of same-sex couples, you may qualify for the Allowance for the Survivor if your partner died on or after January 1, 1998, and you have not remarried or entered into a new common-law relationship for more than 12 months.

To qualify for the Allowance or the Allowance for the Survivor, you must:

- be 60 to 64 years old;
- be a Canadian citizen or legal resident when your benefit is approved (or have been one when you last lived in Canada); and
- have lived in Canada for at least 10 years after turning 18; and
- have an annual income below the prescribed limit (if applying for the Allowance, both you and your spouse's or common-law partner's combined incomes must be below the prescribed limit)

To receive the Allowance, you must not be divorced or voluntarily separated from your spouse or common-law partner for more than three months.

If you have not lived in Canada for at least 10 years since you turned 18, but have lived or worked in a country that has an international social security agreement with Canada, you may still qualify.

You must renew the Allowance or Allowance for the Survivor each year, either automatically by filing an income tax return by April 30, or by filling out a renewal form. The Allowance and the Allowance for the Survivor benefits are not taxable income.

If you and your spouse or common-law partner separate voluntarily for more than three months, your Allowance will end. If you and your spouse are separated for reasons beyond your control (for example, if one of you has to live in a hospital or nursing home), please call Service Canada for more information.

You qualified for the Allowance for the Survivor because your spouse or common-law partner died. If you remarry, your Allowance for the Survivor will end. It will also end if you live in a common-law relationship for at least one year. You must notify Service Canada of any changes.

If you are receiving the Allowance and your spouse or common-law partner dies, you will be switched to the Allowance for the Survivor. Your benefits will then be calculated on the basis of your income alone.

At the age of 65, most people who receive the Allowance or the Allowance for the Survivor have their benefit automatically changed to an Old Age Security pension. At this point you may also be eligible for the Guaranteed Income Supplement.

You may also be eligible for benefits under the War Veterans Allowance Act administered by Veterans Affairs Canada, or for Employment Insurance benefits from Human Resources and Skills Development Canada, other provincial/territorial and municipal income assistance and services.

7.4 Canada Pension Plan

The Canada Pension Plan (CPP) Retirement Pension is a monthly benefit paid to people who have contributed to the Canada Pension Plan. The pension is designed to replace about 25 per cent of the earnings on which a person's contributions were based.

With very few exceptions, every person in Canada over the age of 18 earning a wage or salary must pay into the CPP. You and your employer each pay half of the contributions. If you are self-employed, you pay both portions. The CPP is also portable, so that even if you move from one job to another, you continue to contribute to the CPP and build up future credits.

You do not make contributions if you are receiving a CPP disability or retirement pension. At age 70, you stop contributing even if you have not stopped working.

The CPP operates throughout Canada, although the province of Quebec has its own similar program, the Quebec Pension Plan (QPP). The CPP and the QPP work together to ensure that all contributors are protected.

The CPP pays retirement pensions, survivor benefits, children's benefits, disability benefits and a lump-sum death benefit. You must apply for all CPP benefits. They are not sent automatically. It is important to note that all CPP benefits are taxable income and must be declared on your income tax form each year. Taxes on CPP benefits are not deducted at the source (federal government) unless you request monthly tax deductions.

To Qualify for CPP

---

You qualify for a CPP retirement pension if you have made at least one valid contribution (payment) to the Plan and if:

- you are at least 65; or
- you are between 60 and 64, and meet the earning requirements set out in the legislation

To see if you qualify for a retirement pension between the ages of 60 and 64, please contact Service Canada.

The actual amount you receive is based on how much and for how long you contributed to the Plan, as well as the age at which you choose to begin receiving the pension: age 60 at the earliest, or age 70 at the latest.

The decision when to take retirement pension is yours and depends on your circumstances. Some considerations are:

- whether or not you still earn an income and contribute to the Plan
- how long you have contributed
- how much your earnings were (which affects how much you contributed)
- your other retirement income
- your health; and
- your retirement plans

Although it is not a requirement, it is best to apply at least six months before you want your pension to begin. Please note that there are legislative restrictions on retroactive payments. A delay in applying could result in lost benefits.

You must complete an application. Application kits are available on the Service Canada website, or you can request to receive a kit through the mail.

Disability Benefits

If you are a CPP contributor under the age of 65 and cannot work at any job because of a severe and prolonged physical and/or mental disability, you may be eligible for basic earnings replacement in the form of monthly benefits provided by the Canada Pension Plan Disability program.

If you are receiving a CPP retirement pension, you can apply to have your retirement pension replaced by a CPP disability benefit if you became disabled (according to CPP legislation):

- before you turned 65; and
- before your retirement pension began

In addition, your application for CPP disability benefits must be made within 15 months of the start of your CPP retirement pension.

Any CPP retirement pension payments you have already received may be deducted from your disability benefit.

The Application for Disability Benefits is now available online, or, contact Service Canada to have a kit mailed to you. You must apply for a disability benefit in writing.

Survivor Benefits

The CPP death benefit is a one-time, lump-sum payment made to the deceased contributor's estate. If there is no estate, then the person responsible for the funeral expenses, the surviving spouse or common-law partner or the next of kin may be eligible to receive this payment, in that order. Check with the Funeral Service director if they will apply for this benefit on your behalf as part of the services offered by the funeral home.

The CPP survivor's pension is paid to the person who, at the time of death, is the legal spouse or common-law partner of the deceased contributor. If you are a separated legal spouse, and there is no co-habiting common-law partner, you may qualify for this benefit.

If your deceased same-sex common-law partner contributed to the CPP, you could be eligible for survivor's benefits if the contributor died on or after January 1, 1998.

The Canada Pension Plan children's benefit is paid to the natural or adopted child of the deceased contributor, or a child in the care and control of the deceased contributor at the time of death. The child must be either under age 18, or between the ages of 18 and 25 and attending school full-time at a recognized institution.

Pension Sharing

---

Spouses or common-law partners can share their CPP retirement pension(s), which may result in tax savings. As spouses in a continuing marriage or common-law relationship, you may apply to receive an equal share of the retirement pension or pensions earned during the years you were together. You must both be at least 60 years old.

Credit Splitting

---

When a marriage or common-law relationship ends in divorce or separation, the CPP contributions made by both individuals during the marriage or common-law relationship can be divided equally between you for the period of time you lived together.

7.5 International Benefits

The International Benefits program may provide retirement, disability or survivor benefits to eligible individuals who have lived or worked in another country, or the surviving spouse, common-law partner or children of eligible individuals who have lived or worked in another country.

7.6 Guaranteed Annual Income System

The Guaranteed Annual Income System (GAINS), administered by the Ontario Government, ensures a guaranteed minimum income for Ontario senior citizens by providing monthly payments to qualifying pensioners.

Eligibility

You are eligible to receive GAINS payments if:

- you are an Ontario resident, 65 or older, and receive the federal Old Age Security (OAS) and the federal Guaranteed Income Supplement (GIS)
- you are and have been a permanent resident of Ontario for the past 12 months, or you previously lived in Ontario for a total of 20 years after the age of 18
- your total income from all sources is below the level guaranteed by the province

You are also eligible to receive GAINS payments if you meet the criteria in the last 2 bullet points above and:

- you receive OAS and GIS benefits under the federal International Social Security Agreement program, and
- you have 10 or more years of Canadian residency

How the Program Works

---

If you currently receive a full or partial OAS pension plus the GIS, you do not have to apply for GAINS. The specific amount of GAINS benefit is directly linked to the amount of your GIS monthly payments. A GAINS benefit is only paid when total income, including OAS, GIS and all other sources of income, falls below the annual level guaranteed by the province. The GIS and GAINS benefit year begins each July.

Most seniors will automatically have their GIS entitlement renewed from information included in their current income tax and benefit return. In some situations, you may still require a renewal application to inform the federal government of the amount of income which you received in the prior calendar year.

Method of GAINS Payment

No application is necessary. If you meet the eligibility requirements, your benefits will be determined automatically.

The Ontario Government will automatically mail you a cheque for your GAINS payment around the 25th day of each month, or deposit it directly into your bank account if you have arranged for direct deposit payment for your OAS/GIS. If you do not have direct deposit payment, but would like to, please call:

Amount of GAINS Payment

A GAINS payment is based on your reported income as an individual or combined income as a married couple or common-law partnership. The GAINS payment may increase or decrease along with changes to either your income or marital status. The GAINS benefit is not taxable income, although it is included in the calculation of net income, which is used in determining eligibility for a number of income-tested benefits. GAINS payments decline as private incomes increase. Seniors with no private income receive maximum GAINS benefits. For more information, contact:

7.8 Private Pensions, Savings and Retirement Planning

Public pensions (Old Age Security Pension and Canada Pension Plan) provide a modest base upon which to build additional, private savings for retirement.

RRSPs and RRIFs

A registered retirement savings plan (RRSP) is an arrangement between an individual and an issuer (an insurance company, a trust company or a bank) under which retirement income commences at maturity. Contributions are made by individuals and are deductible under the Income Tax Act. Earnings in the plan remain tax-free and payments out of an RRSP are taxable on receipt.

A registered retirement income fund (RRIF) is a retirement fund that you establish and that is registered to provide income during your retirement. A RRIF is an arrangement between a carrier (an insurance company, a trust company or a bank) and an annuitant under which payments are made to the annuitant of a minimum amount each year. The property under a fund is derived only as a result of a transfer of funds from another RRIF, an RRSP or a registered pension plan (RPP), and annual amounts must commence to be paid to the annuitant immediately.

Setting up a RRIF

By law, you are not eligible to hold an RRSP beyond the 31st of December of the year in which you reach the age of 71. By that time, you must arrange to transfer the proceeds of your RRSP into a RRIF or an annuity that provides you with a retirement income, or you must withdraw the funds and pay income tax on the total proceeds.

You set up a registered retirement income fund account through a financial institution such as a bank, credit union, trust or insurance company. Your financial institution will advise you on the types of RRIF and the investments they can contain.

Starting in the year after you establish a RRIF, you receive a minimum amount each year using a predetermined formula based on the value of the RRIF and your age.

You may have to pay tax on the income when you start receiving the payments. Enter these payments as income on your return for the year you receive them.

RRSP/RRIF Losses After Death

---

If there is a decrease in the value of an unmatured RRSP or a RRIF between the date of death and the date of final distribution to the beneficiary or estate, the legal representative for the deceased person can request the amount of the decrease to be deducted on the deceased's final return.

---

The Lifelong Learning Plan

The Lifelong Learning Plan allows you to withdraw amounts from RRSPs to finance training or education for you or your spouse or common-law partner. You cannot use the RRSP funds to finance your children's training or education, or the training or education of your spouse or common-law partner's children.

Canadian Government Annuities

The Canadian Government Annuities Act began on September 1, 1908. Canadians of modest income could buy deferred or immediate annuities, either individually or through an employer pension plan. By guaranteeing payment, competitive yields, and paying all of the costs of taking care of these annuities, the government tried to encourage people to save for retirement. Changes brought on by the Old Age Security Act (introduced in 1952) and the Canada and Quebec pension plans

(introduced in the 1960s) resulted in a drop in sales. In 1975, the government stopped the sale of Government Annuities.

The Annuities Branch of Human Resources and Social Development Canada, located in Bathurst, New Brunswick, currently administers 100,000 Government Annuity contracts, of which 7,000 have not yet matured.

8.1 Health and Wellness

Information, programs and services on health and wellness are available through Ontario government ministries, the Local Health Integrated Networks, community services via Community Care Access Centres and service agencies.

For more information, contact the Seniors' INFOLine:

1-888-910-1999

Emergency Calls

In the case of any situation where there are people at risk and immediate action is needed, the number to call is 9-1-1. For communities not serviced by 9-1-1, please use the ten-digit emergency number specific to your area listed in your telephone directory.

Telehealth Ontario

Telehealth Ontario is a free, confidential telephone service you can call to get health advice or general health information from a Registered Nurse.

When you call Telehealth Ontario, you will be talking directly with a Registered Nurse. You will be asked to describe your symptoms and answer questions to best assess the seriousness of the problem. Based on the assessment, the Registered Nurse can advise self-care, recommend a visit to a health practitioner or, give you the phone numbers of community resources nearest you.

The Telehealth Ontario service is provided in English and French, with translation support for other languages and a direct TTY number for those with hearing and speech difficulties. Callers can also be connected to medication information and health information audio tapes.

8.2 Local Health Integration Networks

Local Health Integration Networks (LHINs) are not-for-profit corporations that are responsible for planning, integrating and funding local health services in 14 geographic areas of the province. LHINs work in partnership with a range of health service providers in hospitals, Community Care Access Centres, long-term care homes, community health centres, community support services and Mental Health and Addictions Services, to deliver health care that is patient-focused, results-driven, integrated and sustainable.

Aging at home is a priority for the local LHINs to make home care and community support services available to enable people to continue leading healthy and independent lives in their own homes. Most seniors want to continue living at home, whether it is in a private home, condominium complex, an apartment, or other living arrangements.

For the Local Health Integration Network nearest you, visit: www.lhins.on.ca

Community Care Access Centres

There are Community Care Access Centres (CCACs) in communities across Ontario that are funded by Local Health Integration Networks. CCAC advice and services are covered by OHIP. Community Care Access Centres help coordinate services for seniors, people with disabilities and people who need health care services in the community to help them live independently in their own homes for as long as possible. There are costs associated with some of the in-home programs, such as home maintenance.

A CCAC case manager is the single point of access to information, community support services, such as in-home services, respite services, adult day programs and long-term care placement.

In-Home and Community Services – help you with day-to-day things around your home:

- Home Help/Homemaking
- Security Checks/Telephone Assurance Program
- Emergency Response Systems
- Intervention and Assistive Service
- Home Maintenance and Repair
- Meals on Wheels
- Congregate Dining

Community Services – helps connect you with friends or community programs:

- Adult Day Service
- Alzheimer Day Service
- Friendly Visiting
- Transportation to essential appointments
- Intergenerational Program
- Social and Recreational Services

Health Services – help you at home when ill, recovering, or in need of specialized services:

- Personal Support Service
- Attendant Service
- Foot Care
- Alzheimer/Dementia Overnight Service
- Palliative Care
- Supportive Housing

Case managers talk with you about your needs, answer questions about what CCACs can provide and what's available in your community. They will conduct a health care assessment, develop a customized care plan that meets your specific needs, arrange for delivery of government-funded home and community support services, check in regularly with you and adjust your plan if your needs change. CCACs can provide information about long-term care options and help you to arrange and apply for admission to a long-term care home and to get on the appropriate waiting lists.

8.3 Personal Care and Support

Personal Care and Support refers to a range of essential daily activities that help maintain your physical well-being. There are many titles given to formal workers who provide such types of care. These may include, "Personal Support Worker", "Health Care Aides", "Personal Care Workers" or "Attendants". A staff person visiting your home can help you with:

- Personal hygiene care, such as washing and bathing, mouth care, hair care, preventative skin care, routine hand or foot care
- Transferring or positioning into chairs, vehicles or beds
- Dressing and undressing
- Assistance with eating
- Assistance with toileting
- Escorting you to appointments

The staff providing personal care and support can assist you with your activities, or help to ensure your safety while you complete the activities yourself.

Arranging for these services

The Community Care Access Centre (CCAC) can help you with defining your needs and situation, determining your eligibility for government-funded services, locating providers and applying for care. The CCAC can also provide information about the availability of financial subsidies for particular service options.

Health Care Options for Primary Care

Primary health care refers to your first point of contact with a doctor or a health care team. Primary health care includes, but is not limited to: disease management and prevention, disease cure, rehabilitation, palliative care and health promotion.

Knowing your health care options allows you to make better choices for your health care needs. Health Care Options is a user-friendly searchable database of walk-in and after-hours clinics, urgent care centres and family health care providers near you. For more information, please visit:

www.hco-on.ca

Walk-in/After-Hours Clinics

A walk-in clinic is for patients seeking care for uncomplicated and non-emergency needs. Clinic hours usually include evenings and weekends and often don't require an appointment. Note: Please phone the walk-in/after-hours clinic first to make sure an appointment is not necessary.

Urgent Care Centres

An Urgent Care Centre is for patients who need treatment for sickness or injuries that are not life threatening. Urgent Care Centres are open during the day, in the evening and on weekends. Urgent Care Centres provide diagnosis and treatment (except surgery), which may include casts, eye care, laboratory/diagnostics, stitches, and x-ray.

Community Health Centres

A Community Health Centre (CHC) is a non-profit organization providing health and health promotion programs for individuals and families in their own communities. CHC teams include physicians, nurse practitioners, nurses, counsellors, community workers and dietitians. CHCs also offer a wide range of support programs including outreach to isolated seniors.

Family Health Team Locations

A Family Health Team brings together different health care providers to deliver quality patient care. Family Health Team doctors are supported by a team that includes nurses, nurse practitioners and other professionals who work together to provide enrolled patients with health care options. Family Health Teams provide after-hours services to their enrolled patients which should also help to relieve the reliance on emergency departments for non-emergency care.

Family Health Care Providers

General and family doctors, and nurse practitioners are family health care providers. They focus on family medicine, diagnose and treat diseases, physical disorders and injuries to patients of all ages.

Nurse Practitioner Clinics

A Nurse Practitioner Clinic has nurse practitioners working with doctors to provide health care to people who do not have a family doctor. These clinics focus on providing care and educating patients about disease prevention and health promotion. The clinics also help patients find their way through the health system by connecting them, if needed, with other services and community-based programs.

Emergency Rooms

The emergency room is the department of a hospital responsible for medical and surgical care to patients arriving in need of immediate medical attention.

8.4 Public Health

Public health focuses on three areas: preventing conditions that may put health at risk (health protection), early detection of health problems (screening), and changing people's and societies' attitudes and practices regarding lifestyle choices (health promotion).

Public Health Units administer health promotion and disease prevention programs to inform the public about healthy lifestyles, communicable disease control, including education in STDs/AIDS, immunization, food inspection, and health education for all age groups, and selected screening services.

ColonCancerCheck

Ontario has one of the highest rates of colorectal cancer in the world. Colon cancer, often called colorectal cancer, develops in the large intestines (your colon and rectum). It generally develops from tiny growths inside the colon or rectum called polyps. There are no early warning symptoms of the disease, yet, if detected early, colorectal cancer is highly curable.

Risk Factors

- Are you aged 50 or older?
- Do you eat a high-fat, low-fibre diet?
- Are you a smoker?
- Do you consume alcohol excessively?
- Are you physically inactive?
- Are you obese?
- Do you have a family history of colorectal cancer, particularly a parent, child or sibling?
- Do you suffer from inflammatory bowel disease (ulcerative colitis or Crohn's disease)?

If you answered yes to any of these questions, talk to your health care provider about how to reduce your risk of colorectal cancer and appropriate screening methods to catch this disease.

Diabetes

Diabetes is a serious disease that needs managing. If neglected, it can lead to serious, long-term health complications, including heart and kidney disease, stroke, blindness and amputation, and accounts for a significant number of emergency room visits each year.

Type 1 diabetes cannot be prevented. Type 2 diabetes can be prevented through healthy eating, weight management and exercise. By making the right lifestyle choices, both types of diabetes can be managed, letting you live a long and healthy life.

You should take early signs of diabetes seriously. See a doctor to have your blood glucose checked.

Signs that you may have diabetes or high blood glucose levels include:

- Feeling more thirsty
- Frequent urination
- A sudden weight change, either a gain or a loss
- A lack of energy, or feeling tired more than usual
- Blurred vision
- Infections that are more frequent or recurring
- Injuries, such as cuts and bruises, that are slow to heal
- Tingling or no feeling in your hands or feet
- Trouble getting or maintaining an erection

For more information about diabetes, speak to your doctor or health practitioner at a community health centre or public health unit.

Immunizations

Immunizations can help save lives, prevent serious illnesses, and are recognized as one of the most effective public health interventions. Immunizations help the body make its own protection (or antibodies) against certain diseases.

Adults who are 65 years and over can be at higher-risk for complications related to influenza and pneumonia. Because of changes in the influenza strains, adults need an influenza shot each year. Protection against the influenza virus includes an annual immunization that is given in the fall just prior to the “flu season”, which can run from October through to April. This vaccine is available free of charge to all Ontario residents. Influenza does strike in warmer climates, too, so individuals who travel south for the winter are encouraged to get immunized against influenza before leaving home.

The pneumonia vaccine provides protection against a common cause of pneumonia and other systemic infections. You only need to get this vaccine once to be protected and it can be given at any time of year, including at the same time as the influenza vaccine. This vaccine is provided free of charge to adults 65 years of age and over, and those under 65 with specific high-risk medical conditions, such as chronic heart, kidney or lung disease, and diseases that suppress the immune system. Speak with your doctor if this is right for you.

Flu viruses can live on your hands for up to five minutes and they can live on hard surfaces that you touch with your hands – like countertops and telephones – for up to two days. So clean your hands often to protect yourself and others from getting the flu.

8.5 Health Care Providers

How to find a Health Care Provider

---

Health Care Connect is a program that refers people without a regular family health care provider to physicians and nurse practitioners who are accepting new patients in their community.

To register for the Health Care Connect program, call 1-800-445-1822, or for more information, visit:

www.health.gov.on.ca/ms/healthcareconnect/public/index.html

Local Hospital(s)

---

Hospitals often know which physicians with privileges or on staff are accepting new patients, and may be able to provide a few contacts.

Community health centres are organizations that provide primary health care and prevention programs through physicians and a variety of other health professionals.

If you have a local community health centre, it may be taking new patients. Keep in mind that most community health centres only provide services to people who live within their particular community.

Local Newspapers

---

Some physicians, including those who are new to an area or who are beginning to establish a practice, will advertise that they are accepting new patients.

---

Doctor Search

Doctor Search is a free service offered by the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario.

The purpose of Doctor Search is twofold:

- to provide the public access to the names of physicians accepting new patients, and
- to provide the information that can be released to the public about the selected physician.

Find a family physician or specialist by name, or select other search criteria to locate doctors by gender, location of practice, hospital where the doctor has privileges, or language of service other than English.

College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario

The College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario (CPSO) is the self-regulating body for the province's medical profession. One important responsibility of the College is to investigate complaints from members of the public about doctors who are members of the College.

If you would like to talk to someone about the care or conduct of a physician, or about the complaint process, please contact the CPSO Investigations and Resolutions department.

8.6 Ontario Health Insurance Plan

The Ontario Health Insurance Plan (OHIP) covers a wide range of health services. It pays all costs for services that are medically necessary. A resident of Ontario must have a health card to show that he or she is entitled to health care services paid for by OHIP.

Ontario Health Card

---

Ontario residents are eligible for provincially funded health coverage (OHIP). To be eligible for Ontario health coverage you must:

- be a Canadian citizen or have immigration status as set out in Ontario's Health Insurance Act,
- and make your permanent and principal home in Ontario, and
- be physically present in Ontario 153 days in any 12-month period

OHIP coverage normally becomes effective three months after the date you establish residency in Ontario. Tourists and visitors to Ontario are not eligible for OHIP coverage.

To Apply or Renew a Health Card

If you have never had an Ontario health card, you must apply to OHIP to get a photo health card.

To apply:

1. Visit your nearest OHIP office – check your telephone book for a location near you, or call 1-800-664-8988 or TTY: 1-800-387-5558
2. Complete a Registration for Ontario Health Coverage
3. Provide the necessary original documents

If there is no office in your area and you require information about temporary Outreach Registration sites, call ServiceOntario at 1-800-664-8988 and ask for information about Outreach.

A photo health card has an expiry date that is linked to your date of birth. You will need to visit an OHIP office or Outreach office to renew your health card and have a photo taken. The red and white health cards do not have an expiry date.

Renewal notices for photo health cards are mailed approximately two months prior to the expiry date shown on the front of your card, but you can renew up to six months prior to this expiry date.

To renew:

- Go in person to your nearest OHIP office or Outreach office – as noted above.
- Complete a Health Card Renewal form, bring with you an original document that proves your residency in Ontario and an original document with your name and signature to prove your identity (for example, a Canadian passport)

If you live in a remote area, the ministry can make special arrangements. You have to wait three months for OHIP coverage if you are a newcomer to Ontario, or former resident returning here to live after being away for more than 212 days.

If your Health Card is lost, stolen or damaged you should immediately contact:

Protect your Card

Your Ontario Health Card is for health care only. Do not show your card or give your health number to anyone except a health care provider when you receive health care, or to the Ministry of Health and Long-Term Care.

Your personal health care information is protected under the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act. The ministry also has security measures to protect all the personal information that it holds.

OHIP Services In Ontario

---

OHIP covers a wide range of health services; however, it does not pay for services that are not medically necessary, such as cosmetic surgery.

Physicians

The ministry covers all insured medically necessary services provided by physicians. Physicians may bill you for uninsured services or if you miss an appointment or your health card is not valid. You may contact the ministry if you have questions about charges for uninsured services.

Podiatrists and Osteopaths

Services provided by podiatrists and osteopaths are partially covered under OHIP. The ministry pays part while you must pay for the extra costs.

Physiotherapy

Services are available for people who are seniors 65 and over, residents of long-term care homes, needing physiotherapy services in their home or after being hospitalized, and for those receiving social service assistance. Service continues for those who are in hospital or receiving service through Community Care Access Centres or the Workplace Safety and Insurance Board.

Chiropractic Service

The province no longer covers chiropractic services. People are responsible for paying the fees charged by chiropractors. People with private insurance may have these services covered in part or full by their private plans.

Dental Services in Hospital

The ministry pays for some dental surgery when it is done in a hospital. You must pay the cost of regular dental services in a dentist's office.

Eye Care

A comprehensive eye examination is covered by OHIP once a year for persons under 20 and those 65 and over. OHIP also covers a major eye exam once every 12 months for persons aged 20 – 64 who have medical conditions requiring regular eye exams.

Other Health Services

Full or partial coverage is provided in some cases for health services, such as ambulance services, prescribed medications and long-term care services.

Northern Health Travel Grant

You may be eligible for a Northern Health Travel Grant to help pay transportation costs if you live in northern Ontario and must travel long distances for specialty medical care.

Services In Other Canadian Provinces or Territories

Most of your Ontario health coverage benefits can be used across Canada. The province or territory you are visiting will usually bill Ontario directly. If you have to pay for health services you receive in another part of Canada, you can submit your receipts to your local ministry office to be considered for reimbursement. Prescription drugs from pharmacies, home care services, ambulance services and long-term care services provided in other provinces and territories are not covered.

Services Outside Canada

For people travelling outside Canada, the ministry pays a set rate for emergency health services.

Medication

MedsCheck

MedsCheck is a free program that allows you to schedule an annual discussion with a pharmacist for up to 30 minutes. The MedsCheck appointment is a chance to discuss how your prescription, over-the-counter and alternative medications may be affecting each other.

If you're an Ontario resident and you are taking at least three prescription medications for a chronic condition, then MedsCheck is a way to learn how to manage all your medications.

You can set up an appointment with your local pharmacist. You need to bring all the medications you are taking, including non-prescription drugs and your OHIP (health card).

Ontario Public Drug Programs

Each year, 8.8 million people receive drug benefits from Ontario Public Drug Programs. This coverage is provided through five provincial drug plans.

- Ontario Drug Benefit Program
Drug benefits for Ontarians aged 65 and older, residents of long-term care homes and homes for special care, recipients of professional home services and social assistance, and recipients of the Trillium Drug Program.
- Trillium Drug Program
Drug benefits for Ontario residents that have high drug costs in relation to their household income. Any Ontario resident that does not qualify under any of the other plans can apply for the Trillium Drug Program.
- Special Drugs Program
Drug benefits for Ontarians with a valid Health Card for certain expensive outpatient drugs used to treat specific diseases or conditions.
- New Drug Funding Program for Cancer Care
Drug Benefits for newer, intravenous drugs, typically administered in hospitals and cancer care facilities. The Ministry provides about 75% of the overall funding for intravenous cancer drugs in Ontario and hospitals fund the remaining 25% through their operating budgets.
- Inherited Metabolic Diseases Program
Benefits for Ontarians with a valid Health Card for certain outpatient drugs, supplements and specialty foods used in the treatment of specific metabolic disorders.

People 65 years of age and older are eligible for the Ontario Drug Benefit (ODB) program if they have a valid Ontario Health Card. You do not need to apply for coverage. As long as the Ministry of Health and Long-Term Care has the correct mailing address, you will receive a letter of notification of ODB eligibility by mail approximately 2 months before you turn 65. For those qualifying as seniors, ODB benefits begin on the first day of the month following their 65th birthday.

Simply take your prescription and health card to the pharmacy and tell the pharmacist that you are now eligible for the ODB program. The pharmacist will check your eligibility on the government's Health Network System.

If you are planning to move, you are required to inform the Ministry of Health and Long-Term Care if you change your address. It is important that the ministry has your current address to keep your coverage active and for any direct communication with you.

You can update your address online at www.ontario.ca/en/services\_for\_residents or send a letter to your local Health Card Services - OHIP office found in your telephone directory. You must include your name, health number, telephone number, current address, and new address including postal code. If you have questions about your health card, call 1-800-664-8988.

Co-payments and Deductibles

---

The Ontario Drug Benefit (ODB) program runs from August 1 to July 31 each year. ODB eligible people may be asked to pay some portion of their prescription drug product costs.

You will fall into the higher income co-payment category if:

- you are a single senior with an income of more than $16,018 a year, or
- you are part of a senior couple and your combined income is more than $24,175 a year

If you are in the higher co-payment category, you will pay a $100 deductible for prescriptions filled after August 1 of every year. The government's computerized Health Network System at your pharmacy will track what you have paid towards the $100 deductible. This total is printed on your prescription receipt. After you have paid the $100 deductible per senior, you will then pay up to $6.11 towards the ODB dispensing fee for each prescription for a covered drug product in the benefit year.

You will fall into the lower income co-payment category if:

- you are a single senior with an income of less than $16,018 a year, or
- you are part of a senior couple and your combined income is less than $24,175 a year

If you are in the lower income co-payment category, you may be asked to pay up to $2 for each prescription filled.

All newly eligible seniors are automatically enrolled in the higher co-payment category. If you think you may be eligible for the lower $2 co-payment, you can complete an application form and send it to the ministry. Application forms for the lower $2 co-payment are available at Ontario pharmacies or by calling:

1-800-268-1154

Products Covered

Through the Ontario Drug Benefit (ODB) Program, the Ministry of Health and Long-Term Care covers most of the cost of over 3,200 prescription drug products listed in the Ontario Drug Benefit Formulary/Comparative Drug Index (Formulary), in addition to nutrition and diabetic testing products.

The drug must be prescribed by an authorized Ontario prescriber (e.g., family doctor) and purchased in an Ontario pharmacy that is online with the Ministry of Health and Long-Term Care's computerized Health Network System, or from an Ontario doctor who dispenses prescription drug products.

Products Not Covered

---

The ODB does not cover the following products: syringes and other diabetic supplies such as lancets and glucometers, eyeglasses, dentures, hearing aids, or compression stockings. The ODB program does not reimburse prescription drugs purchased outside Ontario. You will need to buy private insurance to cover the cost of prescription drugs bought outside Ontario.

Exceptional Access Program

---

The Individual Clinical Review process is being phased out and replaced by a modernized Exceptional Access Program (EAP). EAP facilitates patient access in exceptional circumstances to drugs approved for sale in Canada but not listed on the Ontario Drug Benefit Formulary, or where Formulary drugs were ineffective or not tolerated, or where no listed alternative was available.

Inquiries regarding the Exceptional Access Program should be directed to:

Diabetic Testing Agents

---

Diabetic testing agents are products people with diabetes use to test sugar levels in blood and ketone levels in urine. Note that syringes and other diabetic supplies, such as lancets and glucometers, are not covered under the ODB program.

The ODB program will cover the costs of diabetic testing agents on the ministry's approved list if you:

- are eligible for drug coverage through the ODB program
- have diabetes
- have a prescription for the approved diabetic testing agent from an Ontario doctor

Speak to your doctor about obtaining a prescription for diabetic testing agents. Your pharmacist can tell you which diabetic testing agents are covered.

Maximum Days' Supply

Under the Ontario Drug Benefit program, you may receive up to a maximum 100 days' supply of medications. For prescriptions for medications that are a new therapy, your doctor may choose to provide a smaller days' supply, until your response to the new medication is known.

8.10 Dental Care

The Ontario Dental Association has tips for seniors noted on the website at:

www.youroralhealth.ca

The causes of tooth decay are the same for all ages. Decay happens when the bacteria in plaque feeds on the sugar in our diet to produce acid that can cause cavities.

Many older adults grew up without fluoride in the water and are more likely to have decay around fillings. Decay of the tooth root is also common in older adults because when the gums recede, this exposes the softer root surface which decays more easily than tooth enamel.

Gum disease (periodontal disease) often progresses at a slow pace, over time, with no pain. There is evidence linking gum disease to heart disease, respiratory disorders and strokes.

If gum disease goes undetected, it can do a great deal of damage. It is primarily caused by plaque, but there are other factors that may increase the risk and severity of the condition including:

- Food left between the teeth
- Smoking
- Smokeless tobacco use
- Poorly aligned teeth
- Poorly fitted partial dentures or bridges
- Poor diets
- Systemic diseases (e.g. anemia)

Dentures and Denture Care

---

Dentures aid in speaking, chewing and swallowing. Visit your dentist to find out if dentures are right for you.

Taking care of your dentures is vital to your overall oral health. Here are some tips on how to keep them in good condition:

- Clean dentures over a water-filled sink to prevent damage if they are dropped
- Place a small amount of liquid hand soap on the denture brush and brush all surfaces, including the clasps on a partial denture
- Rinse well with water
- Store, dry, in a labelled denture cup
- To re-insert dentures, wet first with water to prevent discomfort

Your dentures should not change shape. They were made to fit you and you alone. Sometimes however, your gums, or bone supporting your dentures, change naturally and your dentures will not fit you any longer. If this happens to you, please see your dentist so that adjustments can be made. In an emergency, dental adhesives can be used to ensure the dentures are stable until you see the dentist.

Find a Dentist

The Ontario Dental Association has a website that can assist you in finding a dentist.

www.youroralhealth.ca/Find-A-Dentist.html

---

OHIP pays for some dental surgery that must, by medical necessity, be provided in-hospital. The patient pays for dental services provided in a dentist's office.

---

Dental Services in Long-Term Care Homes

Long-term care homes give you a dental assessment as part of their medical and nursing assessments upon admission. They also provide ongoing oral care by qualified dental professionals on a fee-for-service basis. This includes an annual check-up plus preventative services, such as scaling and cleaning, and an assessment to ensure that dentures are properly fitted.

If you need dental treatment or other services that are not provided by your facility, the facility will help you get a referral to a dentist or other professional of your choice. The facility can also arrange for emergency dental services for you, as needed, but does not cover their cost. You or your representative must authorize and pay for those services.

Subsidized Dental Care

---

Some municipalities provide financial assistance for low income seniors for dental care. Contact your municipality, regional or district, government offices listed in your telephone directory for community and seniors services.

Although the availability of services vary depending on the clinic, several universities and colleges offer dental care at a fee generally less than what private practitioners charge.

8.11 Assistive Devices Program

The Assistive Devices Program (ADP) offers financial assistance to Ontario residents with long-term physical disabilities to obtain basic, competitively priced, personalized assistive devices appropriate for the individual's needs and essential for independent living.

Equipment Funded Under the Program

ADP covers over 8,000 separate pieces of equipment or supplies in a number of categories including:

- Communication Devices
- Diabetes Equipment and Supplies
- Enteral Feeding Supplies
- Hearing Aids
- Home Oxygen
- Insulin Pumps and Supplies
- Orthotic Devices
- Ostomy Supplies
- Pressure Modification Devices
- Prosthetic Devices (Breast, Limb, Ocular, Maxillofacial)
- Respiratory Supplies and Equipment
- Visual Aids
- Wheelchairs, Positioning and Ambulation Aids

A fact sheet for each equipment category lists the devices and supplies eligible for ADP funding and how to apply for them.

www.health.gov.on.ca/en/public/publications/pub\_adp.aspx

Eligibility

---

Any Ontario resident who has a long-term physical disability and a valid Health Card issued in his or her name is eligible for this program. There are specific eligibility criteria that apply to each device category.

---

Financial Assistance

ADP pays up to 75 per cent of the cost of equipment, such as wheelchairs, orthopaedic braces and breathing aids. For others, such as hearing aids, the ADP contributes a fixed amount. With regard to supply items, such as ostomy and needles and syringes for seniors, the ADP pays an annual grant directly to the person.

A number of groups may pick up your part of the equipment expense. These include voluntary/charitable organizations (such as the Easter Seal Society or the March of Dimes), other provincial government programs and some municipal social service departments. These groups may also contribute to the cost of devices not listed in the ADP manual.

8.12 March of Dimes Recycled Rental Equipment Program

The Recycled Rental Equipment Program provides short or long-term rentals of wheelchairs, crutches, ramps, lifting equipment and other devices. This program is particularly beneficial to individuals with a short-term need or rapidly changing condition, for whom purchase is impractical. Equipment is rented to those in need of a specific item, whether it is the result of injury, illness, aging or permanent disability. This innovative program accepts donations of used equipment in good repair. Equipment includes such items as manual and electric wheelchairs, scooters, crutches, walkers, lifting equipment, bath aids and home aids.

8.13 Personal Emergency Response Systems

There are a number of medical alert devices that can help keep a senior safer in the home, including those that can be used to call for assistance. A Personal Emergency Response System is an electronic device designed to let a senior summon help in an emergency. If the person needs help, he/she pushes a button on a pendant or bracelet. The home unit or communicator is activated and automatically dials a response centre. Trained professionals who have instant access to the individual's complete profile and critical information will contact him/her immediately to see what help is needed. If there is no answer, help is sent at once. There is usually a monthly monitoring fee that ranges depending on the service you choose, and there may be a one-time set-up fee. You can purchase this type of service through hospitals, community agencies or independent companies.

8.14 Ambulance Services

Calling an Ambulance

---

For emergency ambulance services, call 9-1-1 or look in the "Emergency Numbers" section at the front of your telephone book for the emergency number to call in your area.

Payment for Ambulance Trips

If you have a valid Ontario Health Card and your use of an ambulance is deemed medically essential by an attending physician, you will not be billed for ambulance trips between Ontario medical facilities (e.g., between two hospitals), but will be billed a nominal fee for ambulance trips between your home and a hospital.

You are exempted from the co-payment if you are receiving provincial social assistance or certain home care services or are living in an Ontario health care home, such as a long-term care home.

If your trip is deemed not medically essential by an attending physician or you do not have a valid Ontario Health Card, you will be billed for a land ambulance trip or the full cost of an air ambulance trip.

8.15 Hospital Programs

Wait Times

---

A wait time is the amount of time you have to wait for a procedure. Your wait is measured from the time your procedure is booked until the time you receive it. If you need several procedures for your condition, each one can have its own wait time. Wait times depend on the type of procedure and the patient's situation.

How long you have to wait depends on:

- How serious your illness is. Patients with illnesses that are not considered life threatening may wait longer. That's because the hospital's operating room will be used for more serious cases first.
- How many other patients your surgeon has to treat. Some specialists have shorter wait times than others.
- How your hospital schedules patient treatment. This depends on the staff, equipment and patient facilities they have.
- How many other people in your community need treatment.

The Ministry of Health and Long-term Care has developed an interactive website which shows the most currently available information about wait times in Ontario, including a breakdown by individual hospitals for six specific health services. This website will display the wait times for general surgery, cardiac, cancer, ophthalmic and orthopaedic surgeries and diagnostic procedures such as MRIs and CT scans. Follow the instructions found on www.waittimes.net. If you have any questions contact the Seniors' INFOline at 1-888-910-1999.

8.20 Wandering Persons or Safely Home Registry

People suffering from Alzheimer Disease or a related dementia may have the tendency to wander away from their home or a facility and become lost if left unsupervised.

To provide peace of mind, caregivers can register their care receiver with Safely Home™ Alzheimer Wandering Registry. Safely Home will provide a numerical identification bracelet that a wanderer would wear. It assists police in identifying the person who is lost and safely returning the person home. It is a nationwide program developed by the Alzheimer Society of Canada in partnership with the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

For a one-time fee, the Alzheimer Society provides:

- An Identification Bracelet
- A Caregiver Handbook
- Identification Cards
- Annual Updates to the Registrant's File

8.21 Chronic Care

Chronic Care is provided in hospitals for people who cannot be treated at home or in long-term care homes. Patients may require immediate access to a physician due to an unstable physical condition, treatment for a progressive illness, such as Alzheimer Disease, or access to specialized care, such as palliative care or tube feeding. Residents are charged a co-payment set by the Ministry of Health and Long-Term Care in a fashion similar to that of the long-term care homes.

For more information about the referral process, see your physician or a Community Care Access Centre case manager.

Changing homes could happen when seniors want to downsize, upsize, or accommodate their change in lifestyle.

Seniors are more likely to move when they are renters, they are widowed or separated, or someone leaves or joins the family.

9.1 Home Adaptations

The majority of people wish to continue living in their own homes for as long as possible, but housing needs change over the course of a lifetime. Many seniors can continue to live at home today with the help of support services and/or by making specific changes to their homes. In many cases, small and inexpensive modifications can be done to enhance independent living in their existing home.

As Canada's national housing agency, the Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation (CMHC) has been helping Canadians improve their housing and living conditions for more than 50 years. In addition to the financial assistance programs listed later in this chapter, CMHC can provide information and resources related to home renovations and adaptations. As well, they offer a variety of publications with regard to home safety, such as:

Maintaining Seniors' Independence Through Home Adaptations: A Self-Assessment Guide – This guide identifies the types of difficulties that seniors can experience and describes types of adaptations that can help overcome these difficulties.

Maintaining Seniors' Independence: A Guide to Home Adaptation – This guide emphasizes and illustrates that in many cases, small and inexpensive modifications can be done to enhance independent living. Among the disabilities addressed are sensory deficiencies, lack of coordination and reduced mobility.

Accessible Housing By Design: Ramps – This guide provides information and advice about improving a home's accessibility by adding a ramp. It includes ramp design, types, measurements and more.

At Home with Alzheimer's Disease: Useful Adaptations to the Home Environment – The safety and security of someone living at home with Alzheimer's Disease can be significantly improved by making minor, low-cost changes in a house or apartment. These practical adaptations will be of help to both the Alzheimer patient and their caregivers.

9.2 Housing Options

Adult Lifestyle Communities

---

Adult Lifestyle Communities provide independent living residences for retirees or semi-retirees in a community of peers. Residences may include bungalows, townhomes, small homes or condominiums providing the benefits of home ownership with on-site recreational and community activities. Amenities may include 24-hour security, social interaction with peers along with leisure and recreational activities. Ownership in an adult lifestyle community may range from simple ownership, to condominium style, land lease and life lease options. Your local real estate agent can provide you with information on an adult lifestyle community in your area.

Life Lease Housing

Life lease housing is an emerging form of housing that provides some seniors with the opportunity to live independently in a retirement home setting. In a life lease project, individuals purchase the right to occupy a dwelling unit for the rest of their life from the housing project sponsor. Life lease project sponsors are usually not-for-profit or charitable organizations that have an interest in developing housing to meet the needs of a seniors' community. Often, life lease projects provide amenities as well as limited services for residents.

Retirement Homes

Retirement homes are private businesses that sell to consumers various combinations of accommodation, support services and personal care. You are responsible for the entire cost of both your accommodation and care services. Retirement home accommodation rates, however, are subject to rent control.

Retirement residences vary widely in terms of care and services provided, amenities offered, types of accommodation (from shared rooms to large apartments), staffing patterns and physical structures (from converted houses to high-rise buildings).

Prices vary in accordance with the type of accommodation and range of services selected. Anyone can apply to a retirement home; you do not need to provide medical evidence that you need care as part of the application process. The home however, may assess your needs to ensure that you do not need more support than it can provide.

For information about retirement homes in your community, please contact:

Ontario Retirement Communities Association

The Ontario Retirement Communities Association (ORCA) is a voluntary, non-profit organization that sets standards and inspects retirement residences in Ontario. All ORCA member homes must pass and maintain ORCA's standards as a condition of membership. ORCA also offers a directory of its accredited retirement homes.

The service is sponsored by ORCA and applies to all retirement residences in the province, not just ORCA member homes.

Callers can get help with:

- understanding the difference between a retirement home, nursing home, home for the aged, and other housing options available to seniors
- how to decide what housing option is best for you
- what to look for in a retirement residence
- what options are available in your community
- the services and level of care provided in different settings

9.3 Financial Assistance Programs

The majority of people wish to continue living in their own homes for as long as possible, but housing needs change over the course of a lifetime. Many seniors can continue to live at home today with the help of support services and/or by making specific changes to their homes. In many cases, small and inexpensive modifications can be done to enhance independent living in their existing home.

Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation

The Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation (CMHC) may help make it possible for a senior to live in their own home for as long as possible through the availability of their Financial Assistance Programs:

The Home Adaptations for Seniors' Independence Program is designed to help homeowners pay for minor home adaptations to extend the time low-income seniors can live in their own homes independently. Assistance is a 'forgivable' loan of up to $3,500. The loan does not have to be repaid as long as the homeowner continues to occupy the unit for six months. The adaptations should be minor items to help meet the needs of seniors with age-related disabilities, such as handrails, lever handles on doors, walk-in showers with grab bars, bathtub grab bars and seats, etc.

The Residential Rehabilitation Assistance Program - Homeowner offers financial assistance to low-income homeowners for mandatory home repairs that will preserve the quality of affordable housing. The program helps people who live in substandard dwellings and cannot afford to pay for the necessary repairs to their home. In general, 'mandatory' repairs related to heating, structural, electrical, plumbing and fire safety are eligible for funding under this program.

The Residential Rehabilitation Assistance Program – Secondary/Garden Suite assists in the creation of affordable housing for low-income seniors and adults with disabilities, by providing financial assistance to convert/develop existing residential properties that can accommodate a secondary self-contained unit. The purpose of this program is to allow seniors to maintain their sense of independence while having the security and peace-of-mind of their family being close by.

The Residential Rehabilitation Assistance Program for Persons with Disabilities offers financial assistance to allow homeowners to pay for modifications to make their property more accessible and safe for persons with disabilities. Examples of eligible modifications are ramps, handrails, chair lifts, bath lifts and cues for doorbells/fire alarms. Assistance is a 'forgivable' loan and does not have to be repaid if you adhere to the terms and conditions of the program. The loan amount that could be received varies according to the geographic zone in which the property is located.

The Emergency Repair Program is only available off-reserve, and offers financial assistance to help low-income households in rural areas, for emergency repairs required for the continued safe occupancy of their home. Eligible repairs may include heating systems, chimneys, doors and windows, roofs, walls, plumbing, electrical systems, etc. Assistance is a 'forgivable' loan and does not have to be repaid if you adhere to the terms and conditions of the program. The loan amount that could be received varies according to the cost of the repairs and the geographic zone in which the property is located.

9.4 Housing Options for Low-Income Seniors

Affordable Housing

Through the Canada-Ontario Affordable Housing Program (AHP), new homes are being created for low-income families, senior citizens, persons living with mental illness, persons with dual diagnosis, and victims of domestic violence.

The government announced the AHP Extension (2009) to create more units of affordable housing. Under the Rental component of the AHP, dedicated funding is being provided to create new affordable rental units for seniors and persons with disabilities. The Northern component is designed to assist low- to moderate-income homeowner households to repair their homes to bring them to acceptable standards and improve accessibility for persons with disabilities. It also provides assistance for landlords of rental projects to rehabilitate affordable rental units. The homes/buildings must be located north of the French River, including Nipissing District, and excluding Indian Reserves.

To obtain more information about these programs, please contact your local service manager or the Ontario government at:

Rent-Geared-To-Income Housing

Social housing is rental housing developed with government assistance and subsidized by government. Social housing is intended for people with low- to moderate-incomes and forms an important part of the “social safety net” for those who cannot afford market rents.

The majority of social housing tenants receive rent-geared-to-income assistance, calculated at 30% of household income. Many non-profit and co-operative housing also have market rental units that are not rent-geared-to-income based.

The length of time before a unit comes available will vary depending on the locations you choose. The waiting lists are generally chronological and based on date of application. Households that have a member or members who are victims of domestic violence can apply for special priority status on the social housing waiting lists. Service managers may also establish their own local priority rules.

A household is eligible for geared-to-income assistance in Ontario if:

- At least one member of the household is 16 years old or older and able to live independently (or with appropriate support services)
- Each member of the household meets at least one of the following criteria:
  - Is a Canadian citizen; has applied for permanent status; or is a refugee claimant
  - No removal order has become enforceable against any member of the household

- No member of the household owes money to a housing provider, under any program administered by a service manager or the Ministry of Municipal Affairs & Housing
- No member of the household has been convicted of misrepresentation of income or a crime under the Criminal Code (Canada) regarding the receipt of rent-geared-to-income assistance

In communities across Ontario, municipal service managers administer social housing. An application for rent-geared-to-income assistance can be made through the local service manager that administers social housing in the region where the household resides. Many service managers provide web access and can accept online applications. In addition, each service manager has a coordinated access centre to assist tenants on how to apply. Contacting these offices is the easiest way to find out about social housing in your local community.

The residents of a housing co-operative are members of the co-operative corporation which owns the whole property. The co-operative provides a unit (townhouse or apartment) to the household which can consist of one or more adults, with or without children. The co-operative is non-profit, therefore members do not own equity in their housing. If they move, their home is returned to the co-operative, to be offered to another individual or family who needs an affordable home.

The key difference between co-operatives and other kinds of non-profit housing is that co-operative members are actively involved in running their own housing community. All members have an equal say in how their co-operative is run.

Co-operatives can provide affordable housing for people with moderate incomes. Because co-operatives charge their members only enough to cover costs, repairs and reserves, they can offer housing that is much more affordable than average private sector rental costs. Each household pays a monthly housing charge (rent) to cover the costs of operating the co-operative. Although co-operatives are not low income housing, some households pay the full monthly charge while others, if eligible, pay an assisted housing charge that is based on income. Members enjoy the same kind of unit and all the benefits of membership regardless of whether they pay a market or assisted housing charge.

For further information, or to find a co-operative in your area, contact the Ontario

Regional Office of the Co-operative Housing Federation of Canada at:

Supportive housing programs provide on-site personal support services for seniors living as tenants in designated residential buildings such as a seniors' building. Supportive housing programs are designed to help people to live independently in their own apartments. Services include personal support/attendant services, essential homemaking services, and staff available 24 hours a day to handle regularly scheduled care and emergency needs.

Most supportive housing programs are operated by not-for-profit organizations and the provision of support services is funded through the Ministry of Health and Long-Term Care. As such, there may be no charge for the personal support/attendant and essential homemaking services. However, tenants are responsible for their own rent, food and clothing. For the housing component of the service, there is generally a tenant-landlord relationship wherein the tenant is expected to pay rent based on their income as well as other usual costs of living in the community.

Supportive housing may be connected with an apartment building, condominium or small-to-large-scale housing projects. For more information on this type of housing in your community, speak with your local Community Care Access Centre (www.310CCAC.ca) or your local housing authority listed in your telephone directory.

9.5 Emergency Rental Assistance

Provincial Rent Bank Program

---

The Provincial Rent Bank Program is funded by the Province of Ontario and administered by the province's municipal service managers. Under this program, tenants facing eviction for non-payment of rent can apply to the local rent bank to receive financial assistance. If a tenant's application is approved, the outstanding rent is paid directly to the landlord on behalf of the tenant.

Several service managers have arrangements with community-based agencies (e.g. the Salvation Army and the United Way).

For more information on the Provincial Rent Bank Program, please contact:

9.6 Landlord and Tenant Relations

The Residential Tenancies Act

---

The Residential Tenancies Act governs landlord and tenant relationships across Ontario. The act sets out the rights and responsibilities of landlords and tenants who rent residential properties. This legislation came into effect January 2007, which replaced the Tenant Protection Act. It gives tenants more protection while still helping landlords and ultimately promoting investment in Ontario's rental housing market.

The Residential Tenancies Act covers most residential rental units in Ontario, including mobile homes, care homes, rooming and boarding houses. The act does not cover commercial tenancies.

The Landlord and Tenant Board

The Landlord and Tenant Board adjudicates residential tenancy disputes, according to the provisions of the Residential Tenancies Act. One of the Board's responsibilities is to provide information about the act to landlords and tenants. In many cases once landlords and tenants are aware of their rights and obligations, they can resolve their own problems. However, if they are not able to come to an agreeable resolution, the Board provides a dispute resolution process.

Landlords and tenants can file an application with the Board. Once an application is filed, the parties have an opportunity to have their issues addressed at a hearing. At the hearing, a member of the Board will make a decision on the application based on the evidence presented by the landlord and tenant. Or, if both the landlord and tenant agree, a mediator from the Board can work with them and try to help them reach their own agreement.

You can contact the Landlord and Tenant Board for information regarding topics, such as:

- Starting A Tenancy
- Rights and Responsibilities of Tenants and Landlords
- Maintenance and Repair
- Rent
- Deposits and Other Charges
- Ending A Tenancy
- Evictions
- Application Process

9.7 Green Home Tips

Choices we make can help the environment. The following are a few tips for 'greener living' in and around your home:

- Consider setting your programmable thermostat a couple of degrees warmer than usual in the summer and cooler in the winter. You can save two per cent on your energy bill for every degree Celsius you adjust on your thermostat. Set your thermostat to match your schedule
- Close registers or vents so you're not wasting heat or air conditioning in rooms that are not being used
- Keep your curtains and blinds open during winter days and closed during summer days. This helps to heat your home on cold days, keeps your home cooler on summer days and reduces energy used by your furnace or air conditioner
- Insulate your home and replace appliances, electronics and lighting with energy efficient models. Turn things off when not in use
- Older furnaces can have energy ratings of only sixty per cent, meaning forty per cent of your gas is being wasted. In other words, forty cents on every heating dollar is going right out the chimney. High efficiency furnaces may be up to fifty per cent more effective than most older units. As well, it is important to keep your furnace clean, lubricated and properly adjusted with annual maintenance. Furnaces working at peak efficiency use less energy and are less costly to run. You should also clean or replace the filter every 1-2 months – dirty filters reduce airflow, causing the furnace to take longer to heat your home
- Air conditioners put an enormous strain on our power supplies. They're the reason the risk of power shortages is greatest in the summer. The Seasonal Energy Efficiency Ratio (SEER) is very important to consider when purchasing an energy efficient air conditioning system. A higher SEER number means a more energy efficient system. A system with a '13' SEER is 20-25 per cent more efficient and less expensive to run, than a system with a '10' SEER. It is also important to keep doors and windows closed when the air conditioner is on, otherwise you're literally throwing energy out the door or window, as well as making the air conditioner work even harder. If possible, use ceiling fans to supplement, or even instead of, air conditioning

- Fix leaking toilets. A leaky toilet can waste up to 200,000 litres of water in a year, enough to fill a large swimming pool. You can test for leaks by adding a few drops of food colouring to the tank. If, after 15 minutes without flushing, colour shows up in the bowl, you have a leak
- Produce less garbage. Make an effort to buy fewer packaged and disposable products and use reusable bags to carry items
- Avoid using pesticides on your lawn and garden. Consider organic, natural gardening methods such as cutting your grass 2 ½" – 3" tall, and leaving your clippings on the lawn, watering in the morning and just once a week
- Although it's not always feasible to put the car keys aside, there are ways to reduce the kilometres you drive. Consider carpooling, public transit, as well as walking and biking

10.1 Meeting Your Legal Needs

All lawyers and paralegals who provide legal services to the public in Ontario must be licensed by the Law Society of Upper Canada. As the regulator, the Law Society ensures that lawyers and paralegals meet standards of learning, professional competence and conduct; responds to complaints from the public about lawyers and paralegals; and disciplines them where necessary.

Lawyers can help you with all types of legal issues, including family matters, criminal matters, civil litigation cases, wills, powers of attorney and estate matters, real estate transactions and administrative law matters.

Licensed paralegals can provide legal services representing you in Small Claims Court for matters such as, traffic offences, at hearings before tribunals, such as the Landlord and Tenant Board or the Workplace Safety and Insurance Board, and for minor criminal charges where the maximum term of imprisonment is six months.

The Law Society offers a number of services to help you find a lawyer, including the Lawyer and Paralegal Directory and the Lawyer Referral Service. Information about these services can be found on the Law Society website.

Lawyer Referral Service

The Lawyer Referral Service of the Law Society of Upper Canada is a service that helps you find a lawyer who can assist you with a legal problem. The Lawyer Referral

Service provides an initial consultation of up to 30 minutes to help you understand the options that arise out of your situation and decide whether you want to pursue a legal remedy. You can indicate whether you have any specific requirements in terms of language or accessibility, as well as where you would like the lawyer to be located in Ontario.

There is no cost for the Lawyer Referral Service. Your phone call, the referral process, and your initial consultation of up to 30 minutes are all free. Although you could ask the lawyer during the consultation what it might cost to have your legal work done, the consultation is meant to help you determine your rights and options, not for the lawyer to do any free legal work. The Service is phone-based only, and is available Monday to Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

10.7 Searching for Adoption Records

It is now easier for Ontarians to look for information about their birth relatives. The Ontario legislature has passed a new adoption information disclosure law called the Access to Adoption Records Act, 2008. If you were adopted, or if your child was placed for adoption in Ontario, you now can receive information that was previously sealed, from your birth and adoption records.

Adopted individuals, age 18 and older, can apply for copies of their birth registration and adoption order. Birth parents can also apply once the adopted adult has reached the age of 19. This information is called post-adoption birth information and may include identifying information such as the adopted person's birth name and adoptive name; the date and place of birth; and the names of the birth parents.

Adopted adults and birth parents also have the option to protect the privacy of their post-adoption birth information. Adopted adults and birth parents can:

- file a notice of contact preference to specify how they would like to be contacted
- file a 'no contact' notice if they do not want to be contacted, but are willing to have their identifying information released
- file a 'disclosure veto' if the adoption was finalized before September 1st, 2008. This will prevent their identifying information from being released

Adopted persons, descendants of an adopted person, birth parents, adoptive parents and members of the birth family (grandparents, siblings, etc.) may also be eligible for other information and services such as, non-identifying information (e.g. date of the adoption, name of the agency that handled the adoption, etc.); severe medical searches (to aid in diagnosing or treating a severe mental or physical illness); placing a name on the adoption disclosure register; and copies of adoption orders.

While the Access to Adoption Records Act, 2008 helps people find their birth and adoption information, it does not help them locate their family. People who want to get in touch with their birth relatives can add their name to Ontario's voluntary Adoption Disclosure Register. Adopted adults, birth parents, birth grandparents and adult birth siblings can apply to get their name and contact information on the Register. If the person they are looking for is also on the Register, the contact information will be shared with both parties, however, a match can only be made if both parties have applied.

These are all free services and are offered through ServiceOntario at:

10.8 Ontario Human Rights

The Human Rights Code ensures Ontarians have the right to equal treatment in employment, accommodation, contracts, goods, services and facilities, and membership in vocational associations and trade unions, without discrimination because of race, ancestry, place of origin, colour, ethnic origin, citizenship, creed, sex, age, marital or family status, same-sex partnership status, sexual orientation, disability, the receipt of public assistance (accommodation only) or record of offences (employment only).

In 2008 Ontario introduced a system to promote and protect human rights in the province. The system is made up of three independent organizations, and is designed to resolve discrimination claims faster, provide legal support to those who need it, and help promote and advance human rights.

The Ontario Human Rights Commission works to promote, protect and advance human rights. Its' main focus is to address the root causes of discrimination. If you want to learn more about Human Rights Education, Outreach or Issues in Ontario, you can contact the Commission at:

www.ohrc.on.ca

The Human Rights Tribunal of Ontario deals with all claims of discrimination filed under the Ontario Human Rights Code. The Tribunal resolves applications through mediation or adjudication. If you want information about the status of your case, an application guide, or copies of any Tribunal forms, you can contact the Tribunal at:

www.hrto.ca

The Human Rights Legal Support Centre offers human rights application-related legal support services to individuals who believe they have experienced discrimination. ## 10.10 Office of the Public Guardian and Trustee

The Office of the Public Guardian and Trustee (OPGT) helps to protect the rights and interests of certain estates of mentally incapable adults who have no one else to act on their behalf. The services available include:

- Conducting Investigations
- Managing Finances
- Making Decisions About Personal Care
- Appointing Private Guardians of Property
- Arranging Legal Representation in Capacity Proceedings (when ordered to do so by the Court, under the Substitute Decisions Act)
- Making Decisions About Treatment and Admission to Long-Term Care
- Reviewing Accounts
- Acting as Litigation Guardian or Legal Representative
- Administering Estates

The OPGT will conduct investigations when it receives information that an individual may be mentally incapable and suffering or at risk of suffering serious harm. Severe self-neglect, physical abuse and financial exploitation of incapable people are some of the problems that this service can, in certain circumstances, help to resolve. Anyone may contact the OPGT to express concerns about a person who may be incapable and at serious risk.

Every year, the OPGT conducts outreach sessions to provide public education on issues such as mental incapacity, guardianship processes and powers of attorney. The OPGT has a wide variety of written material available on these and related topics. For a copy of a brochure, or additional information, please contact:

Power of Attorney Kit

The Office of the Public Guardian and Trustee has produced a Power of Attorney Kit for both property and personal care forms. This kit will help you appoint the person you want to make decisions for you when you are no longer able to do so for yourself. Although the law does not require it, obtaining legal advice in creating these documents is something that should seriously be considered.

A Continuing Power of Attorney for Property (CPOA) is a legal document in which a person gives someone else the legal authority to make decisions about their finances if they become unable to do so for themselves. Once formally appointed, this person would be able to do almost anything that you currently can do concerning your finances, such as sign documents, sell property, make investments and purchase things for you.

If you become unable to manage your own finances and do not have a CPOA, a family member or friend could apply to be your 'guardian'. However, if you have no assets and get only pension income from the government, a family member or friend may be able to ask the pension source for permission to manage this income on your behalf. The Office of the Public Guardian and Trustee may act as your guardian if there is no one else willing or able to take on this role.

A Power of Attorney for Personal Care (POAPC) is a legal document in which one person gives another person the authority to make personal care decisions on their behalf if they become mentally incapable. Once formally appointed, this person would be able to make almost any decision of a personal nature that you could normally make for yourself. Some examples of "personal care" decisions would include medical treatment, housing, food, hygiene, clothing and safety.

If you become incapable of making decisions about medical care or about admission to a long-term care home and do not have a POAPC, a family member would automatically have the right to make most decisions for you. If there is no family member or representative willing or able to do so, the Office of the Public Guardian and Trustee is required to make decisions on your behalf.

10.11 Advance Care Planning

Advance Care Planning is about making choices now, while you are competent, about how you wish to be cared for in the future if you become incapable of making decisions. Every year many Canadians become unable to make their own decisions about their personal care. You can take steps now, while you are capable, to both ensure your wishes are followed and provide someone you trust with the authority to act on your wishes.

The Ontario Seniors' Secretariat in partnership with the Alzheimer Society of Ontario, has produced A Guide to Advance Care Planning to help seniors become more aware of the process of planning for their future personal care. The topics covered include health care (treatment and services), food, housing, clothing, hygiene and safety.

10.12 Organ and Tissue Donation

It is important to talk to your family and friends about your decision to donate organs and tissue so they can understand, support and respect your wishes in the future. In addition to relieving your family of the burden to decide whether to donate on your behalf during their time of grief, it will help increase the support for organ donation. It's a fact that over 80% of people say yes to organ and tissue donation when they realize that their loved ones are registered.

Even if you have signed a donor card, you still need to register your consent, as well as speak to your family about your wishes.

When you 'register' your consent to donate organs and tissues with ServiceOntario, the information will be stored in a government database. The government will disclose information about your decision to The Trillium Gift of Life Network (Ontario's organ and tissue donation agency), for the purpose of ensuring that your decision to donate is known and respected. By registering your consent to donate, you ensure that your donation decision is recorded and made available to the right people at the right time.

How to Register:

- You must be 16 years of age or over
- You can register your consent at a ServiceOntario office when you renew or register for your health card. If you still have the red and white card, or have recently renewed your health card but did not consent at the time, you can go to the Trillium Gift of Life Network website and download a Gift of Life Consent Form. You can also download a form at www.health.gov.on.ca
- After completing and signing the form, return it to the ServiceOntario - Health Card Services - OHIP office or mail it to the address shown on the form
- You may withdraw your consent at any time by contacting ServiceOntario

10.13 Wills and Estates

Wills

A Will is a written document in which you, the “testator”, indicate how your assets should be distributed upon your death. In a Will, you can provide for the welfare of your family, distribute assets as you think best, and appoint an executor, also known as an estate trustee, to manage the estate. Wills also may help you save taxes by taking advantage of tax-savings opportunities and tax deferrals that may arise as a result of your death.

If You Die Without a Will

---

Without a Will, your estate is divided up according to the rules in the Succession Law Reform Act. This act ensures that your estate is divided up amongst your spouse and family members. However, not having a Will may result in your assets being distributed against your wishes. As well, the process to administer your estate without a Will often takes longer and costs more.

---

Preparing a Will

---

It's a good idea to have a lawyer who knows estate law to prepare a Will for you, as the law on estates is complex. A lawyer can make sure that your Will does what you intend it to do and that your estate is distributed according to your wishes.

You should be careful when using any 'Will Kit'. Some of these kits may not comply with Ontario law and, therefore, your Will may not be valid. If you do not sign and witness the Will in accordance with the rules of the Succession Law Reform Act, it may not be valid.

More information on Wills and Estates can be obtained by calling:

10.14 What To Do When Someone Dies

The Ontario government is bundling information and services around key life events, such as "What To Do When Someone Dies". Each bundle brings together in one place information on the subject. From this site, you can find information on things you need to know and quick links to forms you might need.

For more information, visit the "Life Events" section at the Government of Ontario website www.ontario.ca/en/life\_events/index.htm, or contact one of the Government Information Centres around the province. For the Government Information Centre nearest you, call ServiceOntario at 1-800-267-8097.

The First Steps

---

- Call the attending physician if there is an expected death
- If there is no doctor available or the death is unexpected, call 911 or the emergency services number for your area
- Make a list of immediate family, close friends, and employer or business colleagues. Inform them by phone, if appropriate. Select and notify pall bearers and honorary pall bearers if desired. Notify lawyer and executor
- If there is to be an obituary notice, write or make notes for its content. This often includes age, place of birth, date of death, cause of death, occupation, memberships held, outstanding accomplishments, list of survivors in immediate family, and other appropriate information. Remember that lengthy obituaries can be expensive

Funerary customs comprise the complex of beliefs and practices used by a culture to remember the dead, from the funeral itself, to various monuments, prayers, and rituals undertaken in their honour. These customs vary widely between cultures and between religious affiliations within cultures.

If your arrangements will include a traditional funeral or a less expensive service known as a “direct disposition”, contact a funeral home or a transfer service. Funeral directors can help you make all the arrangements for funerals. For more information, contact:

Board of Funeral Services

1-800-387-4458

www.funeralboard.com

Should your arrangements also include burial or cremation, the cemetery or crematorium you choose can help you make the necessary arrangements. If you have questions relating to cemeteries and crematoriums and the services and supplies that they offer, you can call:

1-800-889-9768

www.sse.gov.on.ca/mcs/en/Pages/Cemetaries\_and\_Funerals.aspx

With a Will

You will want to find out if the person left a Will. Some people file their Will with the estates division of their local court, but it could just as easily be with their lawyer, in a safety deposit box, or in a drawer at their home. Once the Will is located, it may or may not go to the courts to determine its legality. The executor of the estate carries out the wishes contained in the Will.

Without a Will

If the person dies without a Will (intestate), their estate will be distributed according to Ontario's Succession Law Reform Act. You may want to contact a lawyer. For information about how to find a lawyer, you can contact the Lawyer Referral Service of the Law Society of Upper Canada at 1-800-268-8326.

Death Out of Country

If the person dies in another country, contact the nearest Canadian Government Office in that country for instructions on how to proceed.

The cause of death determines some of the actions that need to be taken. In normal circumstances, Canadian consular officials will assist families in making all necessary arrangements in such situations.

For a list of government offices abroad, please contact:

www.voyage.gc.ca/faq/death\_deces-eng.asp

Death Certificate

The funeral director will issue copies of a proof of death that you can use in certain situations. There are some organizations, however, that may require an official death certificate. Death certificates, or certified copies of a death registration, are required for such purposes as settlement of estates, insurance, access to or termination of certain government services (e.g., health card, pensions, voters' list).

To register a death, a family member or Funeral Director usually completes the Statement of Death with information about the deceased.

At the same time, the physician or coroner attending the death completes the Medical Certificate of Death, which contains the cause of death information. Both forms are mailed independently to the local Division Registrar of the Office of the Registrar General of Ontario. To contact the Office of the Registrar General, call:

1-800-461-2156

11.5 Long-Term Care Homes

The City of Toronto

In 2006, the City of Toronto Long-Term Care Homes and Services Division found evidence that the mainstream health care system was not meeting the needs of LGBT seniors, who often faced discrimination, alienation, loneliness, depression and fear of disclosing their sexual orientation.

Staff in the division set out to make a positive difference and formed an LGBT Steering Committee that included participation from members from various long-term care homes, community agencies and members of the LGBT community to develop a model of care and a toolkit that could be used by organizations interested in designing and providing care and service that is inclusive and respectful of LGBT persons.

Fudger House, Kipling Acres and True Davidson Acres were the first long-term care homes to provide LGBT inclusive services. The City of Toronto is implementing LGBT inclusive services at its other long-term care homes.

Literacy is the ability to understand and use information in daily activities at home, at work and in the community. Literacy is much more than just reading and writing, it is about how we communicate in society and how we prepare for our ever changing modern world. Literacy enables people to exercise their right to participate in their community, as active participants, to affect decision-making, and to make their voices heard.

Literacy and Basic Skills Program

To help people qualify for postsecondary training or employment. The program is divided into four streams to best serve learners who are Anglophone, Deaf, Francophone and/or Aboriginal. Services are free and are offered at locations throughout the province, in self-directed format and online.

More than 46,000 adult learners are served by the 200 adult literacy programs supported by the OLC. Working closely with partners from the Francophone, Deaf and Aboriginal Literacy Coalitions, it established common practices around common issues.

The OLC raises awareness and engages in public outreach to encourage potential literacy learners to join literacy programs and to provide information on how to access these programs. On behalf of literacy learners, all OLC programs have the overall goal of finding ways to improve the level of literacy in Ontario and to advocate for literacy. Volunteers are always welcomed.

13.1 Overview of Care Options

There are a variety of services that can be provided to people of any age over an extended period of time.

Sometimes these services can be provided in your own home, or in your community. Other times the care is provided in a residential care setting, such as a long-term care home (also known as a nursing home or home for the aged), a retirement home, or a supportive housing building.

Needs may change gradually and sometimes, overnight. Finding the right mix of home and community support services, or choosing a place that offers the care you are looking for can take time. It is best to be informed and aware of your options in advance.

For many people, their family and friends can be an important source of support. Depending on the circumstances, you may be able to meet some or all of your needs with the help of family and friends. Often people mix the help from people they know with help from service providers or agencies.

13.2 Home and Community Support Services

Home and community support services can help you manage your own care while living at home. These services can be obtained individually, or as a combination of services.

Contacting your Community Care Access Centre to find out whether you are eligible for the government-funded home and community support services is your first step. The Community Care Access Centre coordinates your application, and selects the provider for you.

There are four main categories of Home and Community Support Services:

Visiting Health Professional Services

---

Visiting health professional services provide health care in your home. Services include visits to assess your needs, plan and/or provide care. Supplies and equipment relating to these services may also be available. Visiting health professionals include nurses, physiotherapists, occupational therapists, social workers, speech-language pathologists and dietitians.

---

Personal Care and Support

Personal Care and Support refers to a range of essential daily activities that help maintain your physical well-being. There are many titles given to formal workers who provide such types of care: “Personal Support Worker”, “Health Care Aides”, “Personal Care Workers” or “Attendants”. A staff person visiting your home can assist you with your activities, or help to ensure your safety while you complete the activities yourself. Activities include:

- Personal hygiene care such as washing and bathing, mouth care, hair care, preventative skin care, routine hand or foot care
- Transferring or positioning into chairs, vehicles or beds
- Dressing and undressing
- Assistance with eating
- Assistance with toileting
- Escorting you to appointments

Homemaking

---

To help you maintain a safe and comfortable home, homemaking services can assist you with routine household activities including menu planning and meal preparation, shopping, light housecleaning and laundry, and paying bills or banking.

---

Community Support Services

---

Community support services offer a wide variety of services such as meal delivery, transportation, caregiver relief, adult day programs, social and recreational services, security checks and more. Community support services help you to maintain your safety and independence while living at home. Services are delivered either in your home or in different locations around your community. Organizations that provide these services can be either non-profit corporations or private companies.

Services may include:

- Security checks and friendly visiting
- Transportation to essential appointments and activities
- Meals delivered to your home, “Meals on Wheels”

- Wheels-to-Meals, Diners Club or Congregate Dining, where arrangements can be made to enjoy a meal with others in the community
- Caregiving and caregivers respite (For more information please see the chapter on Caregiving)
- Adult day programs provide social and other therapeutic activities at a location outside your home
- Short-stay respite
- Foot care services
- Social and recreational services
- Home maintenance and repairs such as yard maintenance, snow shovelling, window washing, or one-time repair jobs such as plumbing or electrical work

13.3 Residential Care Options

Residential care options enable people to move to a place that provides accommodations with the level of support they need.

Supportive Housing

---

Supportive housing accommodations are for seniors who require minimal to moderate levels of personal care and support to live independently.

If you are looking for:

- Your own apartment near other people who have similar lifestyles and/or social interests
- Rental housing with possible government rent-geared-to-income subsidy
- Government-funded personal care services
- 24-hour availability of personal care and support
- Other optional services (e.g. meals or social activities)

If you don't need immediate or 24-hour availability of nursing care or specialized health services, consider supportive housing.

Please see the chapter on Housing for more information on Supportive Housing.

Retirement Homes

---

Retirement homes are privately-owned rental accommodations for seniors who require minimal to moderate levels of personal care and support to live independently. Retirement homes are funded entirely by the revenues from resident fees.

If you are looking for:

- Your own room or apartment near other people who have similar lifestyles and social interests
- Wheelchair accessible rental accommodations
- Other optional services (e.g. meals or social activities)
- A setting that can adapt to changes in your personal care needs

If you don't need government subsidized rent or care, 24-hour availability of nursing care or specialized health services, consider a retirement home.

Please see the chapter on Housing for more information on Retirement Homes.

Long-Term Care Homes

---

Long-term care homes are designed for people who need the availability of 24-hour nursing care, supervision, or higher levels of personal care. These government regulated homes are also known as nursing homes, municipal homes for the aged or charitable homes. Residents pay for accommodation charges and the care is funded by the Ministry of Health and Long-Term Care.

If you are looking for:

- 24-hour availability of nursing care and high levels of personal care
- A setting that can accommodate varying health needs with on-site supervision for your personal safety
- Government-funded nursing and personal care
- Possibility of subsidized accommodations

If you don't need 24-hour hospital care, consider a long-term care home.

13.4 Long-Term Care Homes

Long-term care homes are provincially funded and regulated. They are also known as nursing homes, municipal homes for the aged and charitable homes for the aged.

Nursing homes are licensed by the Province and are subject to the provisions of the Nursing Homes Act. They may be operated by non-profit or for-profit operators, which include single owner operations and chain operations with multiple homes.

All homes for the aged are non-profit. Many municipalities are required by legislation to operate a municipal home for the aged under the Homes for the Aged and Rest Homes Act. Larger municipalities often operate more than one home.

Charitable homes for the aged are operated by non-profit organizations under the Charitable Institutions Act. They are owned and operated by faith, community, or cultural groups.

All long-term care homes are subject to the same provincial standards with respect to care, services and resident fees.

Admission

---

A Community Care Access Centre (CCAC) case manager determines eligibility for admission to a long-term care home. The CCAC also determines priority for admission and manages the waiting lists for homes. An Applicant may identify three preferred long-term care homes.

If the person does not meet eligibility requirements for a long-term care home, the case manager can provide information about other available options.

Your local CCAC is the first place to learn more about eligibility requirements and how to access long-term care homes. Staff at the CCAC will discuss options available and help you find accommodation in a long-term care home, if needed. For more information about CCACs and how to find the CCAC nearest you, contact:

You can also view a list of long-term care homes in your community at:

<http://publicreporting.ltchomes.net/en-ca/default.aspx>

Accommodation Rates

All nursing and personal care services are paid by the Ontario Government. Residents pay for their accommodation costs. "Preferred Accommodation" is the term used to describe private or semi-private rooms with special features, whereas "Basic or Standard Accommodation” refers to the style of rooms that the home offers in this category.

The amount paid by residents for their accommodation is called a “co-payment”.

There are two different terms used to define the length a person stays in a home:

- Long Stay refers to accommodations that are obtained for an indefinite period of time
- Short Stay refers to temporary stays at a home. The maximum number of days a person can stay is 90 days per year. There are two types of short stay:
  - The short-stay respite service provides a caregiver with a break from caregiving duties
  - The supportive care service provides the resident support to regain strength and confidence, usually following a stay in a hospital

The maximum amount that residents can be charged for accommodation is determined by the Province and set out in regulations. Accommodation rates are generally set each July 1 by the Ministry of Health and Long-Term Care. For information on co-payment rates, visit:

www.health.gov.on.ca/english/public/program/ltc/15\_facilities.html#3

Residents may choose to purchase additional services beyond what long-term care homes are required to provide (e.g. cable television, personal telephone, and hairdressing or barber services). All such charges must be agreed to by the resident in advance. A home may not charge a resident for these services without the resident's agreement in writing.

Services

---

Homes are designed with a home-like environment where each resident can feel safe and comfortable. All long-term care homes have dining rooms and common rooms, and may also have features such as a lounge, gift shop, hair salon, chapel, or garden.

All long-term care homes offer 24-hour supervision and nursing care. The basic package includes the following services:

- Furnishings (e.g. bed, chair), meals (including special diets), bed linens and laundry, personal hygiene supplies, medical/clinical supplies and devices (e.g., walkers, wheelchairs for occasional use), housekeeping, pastoral services, social and recreational programs, medication administration, and assistance with the essential activities of daily living

- Nursing and personal care on a 24-hour basis and access to a physician, and other health care professionals
- Homes must prepare a “plan of care” for each resident, outlining the care requirements and levels of service offered. This plan must be reviewed at least every three months and adapted as needs change

Residents' Rights

Residents of long-term care homes deserve to be cared for in a respectful and compassionate way. They can and should expect their lives to be free from abuse and neglect.

Long-term care homes are required to post the Residents' Bill of Rights in both English and French, in large print and in locations in the home that are easily accessible to residents or their substitute decision-maker.

On admission, each resident or substitute decision-maker receives a copy of the Residents' Bill of Rights and the processes for obtaining information, raising concerns, lodging complaints or recommending changes regarding the home and its services (without fear of restraint, interference, coercion, discrimination or reprisal).

Standards

The Ministry of Health and Long-Term Care sets the minimum expectations relating to care and services for residents. Each long-term home operator must comply with the standards and policies. The government conducts annual inspections to make sure that long-term care homes meet the standards. This yearly inspection also includes on-site visits during which the compliance advisor will interview residents and family members, caregivers and administrative staff in each home. They consider standards of resident care, interactions between residents and staff, physical environment and programs and services.

---

Complaints

If a problem arises and it cannot be resolved with the administrator of the home, a system has been established to register a complaint about a long-term care home.

Any member of the public — a resident, a resident's family member, someone employed by a home, or a member of the public — can register a complaint. All complaints are investigated. The government and its staff treat complaints as strictly confidential.

If you have a concern or want to register a complaint about a long-term care home, this toll-free number has been set up just for this purpose and is staffed 7 days a week from 8:30 a.m. - 7:00 p.m.

Long-Term Care ACTION Line

Alternatively, a letter of complaint can be addressed to:

Ministry of Health and Long-Term Care
Performance Improvement and Compliance Branch
55 St. Clair Ave. W., 8th Fl., Ste. 800

Residents' Councils

Long-term care homes are required (when requested by the resident population) to have active councils or committees. Every resident has the opportunity to participate on residents' councils. The purpose is to encourage an exchange of ideas, suggestions and concerns regarding all aspects of care and activities in the home to enhance relations with staff and volunteers. Although all Residents' Councils have these goals in common, each council is unique in meeting the needs of its members, the residents of the home.

Ontario Association of Residents' Councils

The Ontario Association of Residents' Councils (OARC) primary goals are: supporting residents' councils, speaking with one voice for residents, promoting a standard of care, influencing legislation, and that residents who are living in long-term care homes maintain their independence, privacy and their dignity.

OARC is managed by a Board of Directors, all of whom are residents elected by the member homes across Ontario.

Family Councils

Many long-term care homes have an active family council. A Family Council is a group of family and friends of residents that provides a venue for mutual support, information, education, and advocacy. Although all Family Councils have these goals in common, each council is unique in meeting the needs of its members, the residents, and the home.

The Order of Ontario is the Province's highest official honour. It recognizes Ontarians who have made an outstanding contribution to society in Ontario and around the world. The Order of Ontario is awarded to Ontarians for excellence and achievement in any field. Those who are invested into the Order of Ontario are considered an example of excellence to all Ontarians. Investiture is a ceremony in which someone becomes a member of a group. In this case, appointees, or those named as members of the order, become invested into the Order of Ontario, and are members for the rest of their lives. About 25 people are invested into the Order of Ontario each year. Individuals are nominated for the Order by members of the public.

Ontario Medal for Good Citizenship

The Ontario Medal for Good Citizenship honours people who have made outstanding contributions to their communities over many years. They are recognized for outstanding achievements, and they are individuals who have made their communities a better place to live. Nominees for this award must live in Ontario. They may include federal, provincial or municipal representatives who have left public office. They must be living at the time of nomination. Any individual or organization in Ontario can nominate someone for the Ontario Medal for Good Citizenship.

Ontario Volunteer Service Awards

The Ontario Volunteer Service Awards honour the thousands of people who generously contribute their time. These Awards are given to people who volunteer their time to a single organization for several years. Recipients must have volunteered with one organization for at least five consecutive years and as many as 60. Only organizations can enter nominations for the Volunteer Service Awards.

June Callwood Outstanding Achievement Awards for Volunteerism

The June Callwood Outstanding Achievement Awards for Volunteerism recognize individuals and groups that have made an exceptional contribution to volunteerism in Ontario. These awards recognize individual volunteers, volunteer groups, businesses and other organizations for outstanding contributions to their communities. A special ceremony is held at Queen's Park to honour the recipients.

About 1.85 million people in Ontario have a disability. That is one in seven people and over the next 20 years as people grow older, the number will rise to one in five Ontarians. Individuals, communities, businesses and organizations have a role to play in making Ontario accessible for people of all abilities.

15.1 Ontarians with Disabilities

Information on accessibility initiatives, issues and opportunities, including information about the Ontarians with Disabilities Act, 2001 and Accessibility for Ontarians with Disabilities Act, 2005 and their implementation can be found at:

www.mcass.gov.on.ca/en/mcass/programs. The website includes links to government programs and services for people with disabilities.

Accessibility for Ontarians with Disabilities Act, 2005

---

The Accessibility for Ontarians with Disabilities Act, 2005 calls on the business community, public sector, not-for-profit sector and people with disabilities or their representatives to develop, implement and enforce mandatory accessibility standards.

Accessibility standards are the rules that businesses and organizations in Ontario will have to follow to identify, remove and prevent barriers to accessibility.

The first standard to come into effect is the Accessibility Standards for Customer Service.

Ontario is also developing standards in the areas of built environment (buildings and other structures), employment, information and communications, and transportation.

Ontarians with Disabilities Act

The Ontarians with Disabilities Act is to improve opportunities for people with disabilities and to provide for their involvement in the identification, removal and prevention of barriers to their full participation in the life of the province.

Even though the Accessibility for Ontarians with Disabilities Act, 2005 is now the law, the Ontarians with Disabilities Act, 2001 remains in force until it is repealed. This means that public sector organizations are still legally required to prepare annual accessibility plans and make them available to the public. Public sector organizations are: Ontario government ministries, municipalities, hospitals, school boards, colleges, universities and public transportation organizations.

17.1 Drivers

Staying mobile is important to the lifestyle of today's seniors. Growing older doesn't mean you have to give up driving. No one loses his or her driver's licence solely because of age.

Many older drivers voluntarily modify their driving behaviour to accommodate changes associated with aging.

There are many courses available to help senior drivers recognize and develop strategies to address age-related challenges. Ontario has a licence renewal specifically for drivers 80 years of age and older to help seniors drive safely and be mobile and independent longer.

CAA Mature Driver Course

For older adults the Canadian Automobile Club (CAA) in Ontario offers a three-hour in-class workshop, along with a one-hour in-car assessment, which gives you the opportunity to: review new rules and regulations, review defensive driving tips, discuss alternatives to reduce high-risk situations, be more aware of the physical effects of aging and how to compensate and maintain your independence longer by keeping you and those around you safe. There is a fee for this course.

Accessible Parking Permit

The Accessible Parking Permit is issued to individuals and entitles the vehicle in which it is displayed to be parked in a designated accessible parking space. The individual to whom the permit is issued must be in the vehicle and the permit must be visibly displayed on the dashboard or sun visor when it is parked in the designated accessible parking space. The permit holder may use the permit in any vehicle in which they are travelling. There is no fee for the permit. The government issues four types of permits, which are colour coded: a Permanent Permit (blue), a Temporary Permit (red), a Traveller Permit (purple) and Company Permits (green).

To qualify for an Accessible Parking Permit, the individual must be medically certified by their health practitioner as having one or more of the following conditions:

- Cannot walk without assistance of another person or a brace, cane, crutch, a lower limb prosthetic device or similar assistive device, or who requires the assistance of a wheelchair
- Suffers from lung disease to such an extent that forced expiratory volume in one second is less than 1 litre
- Portable oxygen is a medical necessity
- Cardiovascular disease impairment classified as Class III or Class IV to standards accepted by the American Heart Association or Class III or IV according to the Canadian Cardiovascular Standard
- Severely limited in the ability to walk due to an arthritic, neurological, musculoskeletal or orthopaedic condition
- Visual acuity is 20/200 or poorer in the better eye with or without corrective lenses or whose greatest diameter of the field of vision in both eyes is 20 degrees or less
- Condition(s) or functional impairment that severely limits his or her mobility

A licensed physician, chiropractor, registered nurse practitioner (extended class), physiotherapist or occupational therapist, chiropodist and podiatrist may certify the applicant's condition on the permit application.

Permanent Permit

A Permanent Permit (blue) is valid for five years. All existing Disabled Person Parking Permits are valid until their current expiry date. At that time, the applicant must meet the conditions of the Accessible Parking Permit program criteria.

If the condition necessitating a permit improves, or if anyone comes into the possession of a valid permit issued in the name of a deceased person, the permit must be returned to the following address:

ServiceOntario
Renewals Section
P.O. Box 9800
Kingston ON K7L 5N8

Temporary Permits

Temporary Permit (red) is issued when the disability is expected to last more than two months to a maximum of 12 months but is not considered a permanent disability. This permit is not renewable.

Traveller Permits

A Traveller Permit (purple) is valid for up to one year and is issued and renewable upon request. These permits are displayed on the dashboard or sun visor of a vehicle at any Ontario airport. The regular permit travels with the permit holder.

Company Permits

A Company Permit (green) is valid up to five years and is issued to companies/non-profit organizations for use in vehicles they own/lease for the purpose of transporting people with physical disabilities who meet the ministry's eligibility criteria.

Applicants can download and print the Application for an Accessible Parking Permit at the Ministry of Transportation's website at:

17.2 Alternatives to Driving

There comes a time when we all must consider limiting our driving or retiring from driving.

Often, this is not an easy decision. We may use our car for shopping, banking, appointments as well as social and recreation activities. We do not want to burden others, and value the independence driving gives us.

Things To Watch For

---

Many people gradually reduce their driving, until one day they simply stop. Others have more trouble deciding when it is time to limit their driving. Here are some warning signs to alert you to the fact that you may no longer be a safe driver and may need to consider alternatives to driving:

1. Am I nervous behind the wheel?
2. Do other drivers frequently honk at me?
3. Have I had a number of fender benders and near misses?
4. Do my family or friends worry about my driving?
5. Do my children trust me to drive the car?
6. Have I ever become lost when driving or forgotten where I was going?

Alternatives

---

There are many alternatives to driving. Find out what is available in your area and start trying these options:

- Buses, taxis and other forms of public transit
- Having friends and family members drive you
- Keeping a vehicle that others drive for you
- Van/bus pick-up scheduled and on demand from senior residences and other groups
- Taxi vouchers
- Walking
- Some volunteer driver services may be available in your area through groups such as Red Cross, the Legion or older adult centre

Seek Advice

---

Plan ahead for the time when you will need to cut back, and eventually stop driving. Talk to family, friends and your doctor. Together, they can help you decide on the extent of driving that is right for you.

17.3 Vehicles

Used Vehicle Information Package

---

Over one million used vehicles change ownership in Ontario each year. To help consumers make better informed decisions, the Ontario Government has introduced the Used Vehicle Information Package (UVIP). If you are privately selling a used vehicle (car, van, light truck, motor home or motorcycle) in Ontario, you must purchase a UVIP and show it to potential buyers.

The UVIP is available from all ServiceOntario Driver and Vehicle Licence Issuing Offices or online at:

1-800-387-3445

www.ontario.ca/en/services\_for\_residents/053274

For more information on buying, selling or transferring used vehicles, visit:

www.mto.gov.on.ca/english/dandv/vehicle/used.shtml

Drive Clean

Ontario's Drive Clean program is concerned with helping you make smart choices about how you maintain and drive your vehicle(s). Maintaining your vehicle's emission systems helps protect everybody's health and environment by reducing smog-causing pollutants. Driving Clean can also save you up to 10 percent in annual fuel consumption and prolong the life of your vehicle.

The Light Duty Drive Clean program requires most passenger cars, vans, light trucks and sport utility vehicles registered in the Drive Clean program area to be tested in order to renew the stickers on their licence plates.

If your vehicle requires an emissions test, you will receive a reminder as part of your vehicle licence renewal application.

For more information about the Drive Clean program, or to find the accredited facility nearest you that performs emission tests and repairs, contact:

Home and Vehicle Modification Program

The Home and Vehicle Modification Program provides funding for basic home and/or vehicle modifications. By reducing or eliminating life safety risks, these modifications enable children and adults with mobility restrictions to continue living in their homes, avoid job loss, and participate in their communities.

For more information, please refer to the Resources for Seniors With Disabilities Chapter.

17.4 Public Transportation Services

Many communities have bus service and specialized transit services for their residents. Bus services provided by municipalities use regularly scheduled vehicles that operate on fixed routes, according to published route maps and timetables.

Specialized transit services for seniors and persons with disabilities typically use smaller vehicles equipped with a lift or ramp for persons using mobility devices, such as wheelchairs and scooters, for example, Wheel-Trans in Toronto, Para Transpo in Ottawa and Windsor Handi-Transit. Some communities use fully accessible community buses to provide services to their residents on both fixed and flexible routes.

For information regarding the types of public transportation services available in your area, please contact your local government office listed in your telephone book.

Volunteer Driver services may be available in your area through the Red Cross, Legion branch or older adult centre.

GO Transit

GO Transit runs public transportation service for the Greater Toronto and Hamilton Area of Southern Ontario, with service extending to Niagara Falls, Orangeville and Kitchener-Waterloo in the west; Barrie, Brantford, and Beaverton in the north; Stouffville, Uxbridge, and Peterborough in the northeast; and Oshawa and Newcastle in the east. GO carries nearly 55 million passengers a year.

GO fares vary with the distance travelled. Seniors 65 and over travel for half the regular adult fare. Single one-way rides, two-ride tickets, day passes, 10 rides, group passes and monthly passes are available for seniors.

The majority of GO's stations are accessible to passengers who use mobility devices, such as wheelchairs and scooters — or anyone preferring step-free access to the train.

Disability Pensions and Awards

Disability pensions and awards are available for conditions related to service in the Merchant Navy, Canadian Forces, RCMP, or those serving in support of the Canadian Forces in wartime or in Special Duty/Operations Areas.

---

War Veterans Allowance

---

This allowance provides a regular monthly payment to eligible low-income veterans of the Second World War or Korean War. Surviving spouses or common-law partners, as well as orphans, may qualify for the Allowance if the deceased veteran or civilian had the required war service. Clients who receive War Veterans Allowance may qualify for financial help through the Assistance Fund if they are faced with an emergency situation and they have no way to pay for these expenses.

---

Health Care Benefits

Veterans Affairs Canada offers 14 kinds of health benefits, including medical, surgical and dental care, prescription drugs, and hearing and vision aids. It also offers supplementary health benefits, treatment allowances and other miscellaneous benefits. For example, the cost of travel for medical services, including the cost of travel for an escort, where necessary, may also be covered.

The ability to access health benefits may depend on your eligibility, your health needs and whether these services are available through the province.

Veterans Independence Program

This national home care program helps qualified veterans, still-serving members of the Canadian Forces who receive a disability award or pension, and certain civilians, to remain healthy and independent in their own homes and communities. Surviving spouses may be eligible to receive housekeeping, home adaptations and/or grounds maintenance services from the Veterans Independence Program. The program does not replace other federal, provincial or municipal programs. Instead it complements these programs when necessary, to best meet the needs of clients.

Long-Term Care

Eligible Canadian and Allied war service veterans and certain civilians may qualify for intermediate or chronic care at Veterans Affairs facilities, or at more than 1,900 community facilities across the country. Canadian Forces pensioners may qualify to receive intermediate or chronic care in a community facility if the need for this care is related to a pensioned condition.

Support for Operational Stress Injury

Support is offered to those who are suffering from operational stress injuries as a result of their service. The program provides services to wartime veterans, still-serving or released members of the Canadian Forces, or RCMP and their families.

18.5 Highway of Heroes

In September 2007, the Ontario government formally dedicated the "Highway of Heroes" by unveiling signs along a section of Highway 401 that commemorate the bravery and sacrifice of Canadian soldiers killed in the line of duty. The dedication of a 172-kilometre stretch of Highway 401 pays tribute to the solemn journey fallen soldiers take once they return to Canada and are formally transported from Canadian Forces Base Trenton to Toronto.

18.6 Veterans' Commemorative Park

Officially opened in 2000, the Veterans' Commemorative Park is located on Highway 416, the Veterans' Memorial Highway, just outside of Kemptville Ontario. The park, which features monuments and gardens, is used for Remembrance Day commemorations as well as other Legion activities. The site is wheelchair accessible and parking is available adjacent to the park.

18.7 Veterans' Memorial Highway

Highway 416, named the Veterans' Memorial Highway, was officially opened on September 23, 1999. It is an 80-km four-lane freeway which runs from Highway 417 in Ottawa south to Highway 401.

Other communities have named stretches of secondary highways as Veterans' Highways to recognize the contributions veterans make or have made to the community, province and country. These exist in Halton and Brant counties, among others.

18.8 Veterans' Memorial at Queen's Park

A Veterans' Memorial at Queen's Park honours Canada's men and women who served, and continue to serve, their country in times of war and peace. The memorial was dedicated at a formal unveiling ceremony on September 17, 2006.

The Veterans' Memorial is located on the front lawn of the Legislature at Queen's Park. The memorial was designed by Canadian artist Allan Harding MacKay. It consists of a 30-metre-long granite wall etched with scenes from Canada's war history and inscribed with text from author Jane Urquhart and military historian Jack Granatstein. The memorial site also features a stone-paved gathering area, a seating area, paths and a gently sloping lawn.

The Province of Ontario hosts the annual Remembrance Day Ceremony and other Veterans' events at the Memorial Wall.

Many communities have cenotaphs or monuments dedicated to veterans in parks, on the grounds of the community's government offices or local branches of the Royal Canadian Legion. Some of the monuments are historical while others are more recently built, as found in the City of Peterborough.
